PREFACE TO THIRD EDITION

Information concerning the 1st and 2d editions of this Checklist is given in the introduction on page ~~IX.~~ XI.

The period covered by the present 3d edition is, for Congressional documents, from the 1st Congress to the end of the 60th Congress, and for departmental publications, from the organization of the United States Government to the end of the calendar year 1909. A few publications which were not issued until 1910 or 1911 have been included, but these are all annual reports or serial publications covering the year 1909, entries for which were required in order to complete the record of Government publications from 1789 to 1909, inclusive. Attention is also called to the fact that information is given in footnotes concerning the classification and titles of all new series begun between Dec. 31, 1909, and the date of going to press; also concerning recent changes which affect series entered in the body of the Checklist.

The compilation of this work has been in charge of Miss Mary A. Hartwell.

An index will be issued as volume 2 of the Checklist.

Advance sheets of this 3d edition of the Checklist should be discarded, as they are now entirely superseded.

AUGUST DONATH,
Superintendent of Documents.

INTRODUCTION

The 3d edition of the Checklist of United States public documents, herewith presented, records the first systematic effort to include within the limits of one publication an approximately complete checklist of all public documents issued by the United States Government during the first century and a quarter of its history. It claims to be only a checklist, not a catalogue; but it aims to be as complete and accurate a checklist as human energy and enthusiasm could evolve for publication within the narrow confines of a single reference work, which must be in a form both usable and concise. To meet such conditions has been a task the difficulties of which can be appreciated to their fullest extent by very few aside from the compilers themselves.

DEFINITION OF "PUBLIC DOCUMENT"

At the very outset it seems desirable to trace the legislative definitions of the term "public document" and then to define its use in this Checklist, since in collecting a library or making catalogues or lists of public documents, the ever recurring question is, "Which are and which are not public documents?"

Since 1861, the date of the establishment of the Government Printing Office, the decision is an easy one, for, with but few exceptions, as when the publishing office has prevailed upon the Public Printer to omit the official imprint, or in cases of works published but not printed by the Government, all the issues are imprinted "Washington, Government Printing Office." For the period prior to 1861, it is more difficult to determine just what publications should be included in the library and lists.

The term "public document" was first legally defined in sec. 13 of chapter 63, Laws of 29th Congress, 2d session, approved Mar. 3, 1847, as follows: "Such publications or books as have been or may be published, procured, or purchased by order of either House of Congress, or a joint resolution of the two Houses, shall be considered as public documents."

By act approved June 23, 1874, Laws of 43d Congress, 1st session, sec. 13 of chapter 456, this definition is abridged to the following: "The term 'public document' is hereby defined to be all publications printed by order of Congress or either House thereof." This definition was made in relation to postage and is certainly most inadequate.

The practice of the Office of the Superintendent of Documents, officially adopted, as authorized by law, in compiling its catalogues of the public documents of the United States, and further legalized by many years of unqualified acceptance by all branches of the Federal Government, has been thus formulated: "Any publication printed at Government expense or published by authority of Congress or any Government publishing office, or of which an edition has been bought by Congress or any Government office for division among Members of Congress or distribution to Government officials or the public, shall be considered a public document." Thus it will be seen that a very liberal view has been taken, and although it has been ruled to debar any and all publications which, however closely allied to the operations of the Government, were not found to have been printed or purchased by it, some exceptions have been made where there was doubt as to the publisher.

CATALOGUES AND INDEXES ISSUED BY THE DOCUMENTS OFFICE

Since the establishment of the Office of the Superintendent of Documents there has been a steadily increasing interest in all matters which pertain to the public document question. The office was established under the printing act of Jan. 12, 1895, sec. 62 of which provided for the publication of the Document catalogue. This is a complete catalogue in dictionary form, containing entries for all publications of the Government, both Congressional and departmental, and covering a period of two years. Document catalogues have been issued by Congresses, beginning with the 53d, one book for each Congress, with the exception of the 54th, which was issued in two books, one for each session.

The Document index was provided for by the same section of the above-mentioned act. It is an index to Congressional documents only, and in a single volume supplants six indexes; for prior to the 54th Congress the six series of the Congressional set—Senate executive documents, Senate miscellaneous documents, Senate reports, House executive documents, House miscellaneous documents, and House reports—were each separately indexed and the index for each of these series was repeated in all volumes of that series. The Document indexes began with the 54th Congress, 1st session, and are issued after the close of each regular session. This makes 2 indexes for each Congress. In the case of the 55th Congress, however, 3 were issued, the index to the documents and reports of the special session (the 1st) being separately issued, whereas for other special sessions called since that time the indexes thereto have been incorporated in the index for the regular session.

Section 69 of the same act made provision for the Monthly catalogue, which has been issued for each month from Jan. 1895, 12 numbers for each year. The Monthly catalogue, like the Document catalogue, includes both Congressional and departmental publications, with the exception of the period from July, 1907, to June, 1908, covering the 1st session of the 60th Congress, during which time all Congressional publications and such departmental publications as were not obtainable were omitted from the Monthly.

The Document catalogue is the permanent record. It replaces the Monthly catalogues for the period covered, the Monthlies being ephemeral in character. The Document catalogue also covers the same ground, though in a different way, as do the 2 Document indexes for the same Congress.

Beginning with Mar. 4, 1893, therefore, our Document catalogues, Document indexes, and Monthly catalogues have been the keys which unlocked the treasures to be found in public documents issued during recent years; but what keys were there to unlock the treasures of more than a century, that is, from 1789 to 1893? There were Poore's Descriptive catalogue, Ames's Comprehensive index, and a few other working tools, all of which dealt mostly with Congressional documents and said comparatively little about the multitudinous publications of the Executive Departments and independent Government establishments which from their very beginnings have poured forth a steady stream of books and pamphlets. Unfortunately, only comparatively few Government publishing offices have attempted to preserve for posterity a complete file of their own publications. It is therefore no wonder that general lists or indexes have been so few and so unsatisfactory. The most important bibliographical aids for general research work among public documents are briefly mentioned in the following pages.

EARLY GENERAL INDEXES TO CONGRESSIONAL DOCUMENTS AND REPORTS

For the very early period there is an interesting old volume composed of 4 separately printed indexes, each with its own title-page, the whole preceded by a leaf containing the half-title "Index to documents and reports, House of Representatives, 1789–1839," and a table of contents. Each of the 4 indexes had appeared in the sheep-bound set of Congressional documents, either as a part or as the whole of serial numbers 104, 85[2], 209[2], and 350. The first of these indexes covers from the 1st to the 14th Congress, 1789–1817, for Executive documents, and from the 1st to the 15th Congress, 1789–1819, for reports of committees. The second covers from the 15th to the 17th Congress, 1817–23, and indexes both Executive documents and reports. The third is from the 18th to the 21st Congress, 1823–31. The fourth is from the 22d to the 25th Congress, 1831–39. These indexes have colored margins, the first being yellow, blue, and white; the second, red; the third, green; and the fourth, white. These colors give to the volume a unique and fantastic appearance. One wishes it had been more usable. It is stated plainly on the half-title-page that "the indices in this volume were made at different periods, and upon different plans."

Soon after the publication of the last of these 4 indexes the set was harshly criticized, and apparently with justice, by Thomas F. Gordon, the lawyer and historian, who characterized the indexes as "grievously deficient in indicating the nature and contents of the documents" to which they referred. He mentions also their "great complexity." Between the lines one reads Gordon's argument for his own pet scheme, which was to prepare and publish three sets of indexes—"one to the executive documents and reports of committees of both Houses; one to the Journals of the House; and another to the Journals of the Senate." This proposition, which had been agitated from the latter part of the 25th Congress, received the approval of the Joint Committee on the Library; but there is no evidence of further action on the subject and Gordon's plan never had a trial. For expositions of his plan, the searcher is referred to the following documents: 27th Congress, 3d session, House document 41, serial no. 420; 28th Congress, 2d session, House document 46, serial no. 464; 29th Congress, 1st session, Senate document 184, serial no. 473. The last-mentioned document is merely a repetition of the document of the previous session, but it contains in addition the report of approval by the Joint Committee on the Library. Although Gordon's plans were never adopted, many of his suggestions were incorporated in later indexes.

The next general indexes to Congressional documents and reports actually published were two volumes prepared under the direction of Edward McPherson, clerk of the House of Representatives. One was printed in 1870 and was entitled "Consolidated index of executive documents of the House of Representatives, 26th–40th Congress." The other, printed in 1869, covered the same period for reports of committees, and had a similar title-page. These appeared as unnumbered documents included in the Congressional set as serial numbers 1386 and 1387. It will be noted that these indexes began where the multicolored indexes above described left off.

On June 12, 1874, Dr. Ainsworth Rand Spofford, then Librarian of Congress, presented to the Senate a "Memorandum concerning a complete index to the documents and debates of Congress." This was printed as 43d Congress, 1st session, Senate miscellaneous document 125, serial no. 1584. Dr. Spofford's plans were very comprehensive. He contemplated a "topical index," which should index in one alphabet not only the Congressional documents, 1789–1873, but also the Proceedings of Congress—the Annals of Congress, the Register of debates, and the Congressional globe—(X.); American state papers (zero numbers); Wait's state papers (Z3.2:); Statutes at large (S7.9:); Journals of Continental Congress (Z2.5:–Z2.7:); Force's American archives (Z1.1:); Sparks's Diplomatic correspondence of American Revolution (Z2.2:); Madison's Report of debates in Federal Convention, known as Madison papers (Z2.1: El5$^{2-5}$, El5$^{3-5}$, El5$^{4-5}$); and Elliot's Debates in State constitutional conventions (Z2.1:); aggregating about 1600 volumes in all. No such index as Dr. Spofford planned ever materialized. His efforts, like Gordon's in earlier times, were quite fruitless.

INDEXES TO McKEE'S COMPILATION OF COMMITTEE REPORTS

Thomas Hudson McKee's compilation is familiar to many people who have had occasion to consult Congressional committee reports from the 14th to the 49th Congress, 1815–87. The compilation was provided for by Congress, as noted in the body of this Checklist under the classification number Y4.Ac2:M19, where will be found further historical and bibliographical information concerning this useful collection of 515 volumes. The set was furnished with 94 indexes, 36 to Senate reports and 58 to House reports, making a distinct index for each standing committee and a combined index in each House for the select and special committees for which individual volumes had not been issued. Each index was bound with the volume or volumes which it indexed.

POORE'S CATALOGUE

Ben: Perley Poore's "Descriptive catalogue of Government publications of United States, Sept. 5, 1774–Mar. 4, 1881," published in 1885, has proved a boon to all users of public documents. The Senate, on Mar. 24, 1881, passed a resolution calling on the heads of each of the Executive Departments "to report to the Senate * * * complete lists of any and all books, reports, documents, and pamphlets issued, printed, or published by their respective departments, and by each and every bureau and officer thereof, from Mar. 4, 1789, to Mar. 4, 1881." In reply to this resolution, lists were submitted by the Interior, Justice, Navy, and War Departments. These lists were all sadly deficient and the titles often so abbreviated as to conceal the identity of the book.

The Treasury Department replied to the effect that "The records of this Department fail to give the information called for, as it is within a short time only that steps have been taken to preserve in consecutiv . order the various reports, documents, pamphlets, circulars, &c., issued therefrom." The Post-Office and State Departments, so far as known, made no reply at all.

These lists formed the basis for Poore's catalogue, the publication of which was provided for by act of July 27, 1882. The book is arranged chronologically, and has a very full index, without which the "Descriptive catalogue" would be useless. It was a huge undertaking and for the period covered it has been of immense service, in spite of the fact that it is unwieldy, incomplete, difficult to consult, and sometimes inaccurate. A very large proportion of its entries are for Congressional documents only. It is deplorably weak in departmental publications, so much so that the title of the work is a misnomer.

AMES'S COMPREHENSIVE INDEXES

In 1894, under a concurrent resolution of Mar. 3, 1893, there was printed a volume which had been prepared by Dr. John G. Ames, then in charge of the Document Division of the Interior Department. This volume was entitled "Comprehensive index of publications of United States Government, 1889–93." It covered a period of 4 years, but there was left a gap of 8 years, not covered by any general index. In order to fill in this gap between Poore's catalogue and the Document catalogues issued by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, which began with Mar. 4, 1893, Congress by joint resolution approved Mar. 3, 1897, authorized Dr. Ames to prepare another edition of his Comprehensive index, to include all that the first edition included and to begin with 1881, where Poore's catalogue left off. This new edition of Ames's index, which was issued in 1905, comprised 2 volumes of about 1600 pages in all, with title, "Comprehensive index to publications of United States Government, 1881–93."

Experience has taught that this 2-volumed edition of the "Comprehensive index" is not so "comprehensive" as it ought by rights to be. It does not by any means include all the public documents which were issued during the twelve years from 1881 to 1893, the period of the 47th to the 52d Congresses, inclusive. Like its predecessor, Poore's catalogue, it lacks entries for a very large number of departmental publications.

HICKCOX'S MONTHLY CATALOGUE

It is fitting that mention be made here of another catalogue, in 10 volumes, which though a private venture and not published under the auspices of the Government, was nevertheless the precursor of the Monthly catalogue of the Office of the Superintendent of Documents and was discontinued when that publication began.

The set referred to bears the title "United States Government publications, a monthly catalogue," and its editor was John H. Hickcox of Washington, D. C. Volume 1 was issued for 1885 and yearly volumes followed up to and including v. 10, for 1894. It was issued irregularly in monthly numbers. The first few volumes were published by the editor himself, and although he afterwards sold all rights to W. H. Lowdermilk & Co., Washington, D. C., Mr. Hickcox continued to edit the catalogue.

The publisher's announcement stated that "the importance of this catalogue as a systematic and accurate record of the vast, varied, and important number of books and documents issued annually by Congress and the Departments must be apparent to every person who has occasion to consult such publications." It purports to contain "a catalogue of all the latest publications of the United States Government." The facts are, however, that many publications issued during the decade from 1885 to 1894 escaped the notice of Mr. Hickcox; still, it frequently happens that Hickcox's catalogue contains entries for publications not listed elsewhere. This catalogue may be relied on for general excellence.

1st EDITION OF THE CHECKLIST

In 1892 the Interior Department published a valuable work prepared by John G. Ames, under the title "List of Congressional documents, 15th–51st Congress, and of Government publications containing debates and proceedings of Congress, 1st–51st Congress, with miscellaneous lists of public documents, historical and bibliographical notes." Eighty-three of its 120 pages contain a list of Congressional documents, arranged by Congress, session, series, and volume, while the remaining pages list the proceedings of Congress and the more important annual reports and a few miscellaneous departmental publications.

Dr. Ames performed a lasting service by giving to the public this first edition of the Checklist. The supply was soon exhausted and the continued demand from librarians made a new edition a necessity.

2d EDITION OF THE CHECKLIST

Soon after the Office of the Superintendent of Documents was established under the general printing act of Jan. 12, 1895, Dr. Ames generously turned over to the newly created office the printer's copy which he had prepared for a 2d edition of the Checklist. For this new edition Dr. Ames had devised a numerical scheme of "serial numbers" for Congressional documents, beginning with the 15th Congress.

Dr. Ames's copy, after considerable revision and with many additions, was issued as the "Checklist of public documents, containing debates and proceedings of Congress, 1st–53d Congress, with miscellaneous lists of documents, and historical and bibliographical notes, 2d edition revised and enlarged, issued by F. A. Crandall, Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, 1895." This edition had 222 pages.

Besides many additional lists, there were included also a prefatory note on the first 14 Congresses, compiled by John H. Hickcox, and 3 appendixes compiled by Miss Adelaide R. Hasse, app. 1 containing a list of Explorations and surveys, app. 2, Government catalogues, app. 3, Index.

This 2d edition, though hastily prepared, proved to be a very popular and useful reference work. There were 3000 copies printed, but these were not sufficient to meet the demand. No reprint was made for the reason that a very much more complete Checklist was contemplated. This work, completed to the end of the calendar year 1909, is now in your hands; but before a description of the 3d edition is entered upon, it is essential to make mention of an intermediary volume issued by the Superintendent of Documents.

TABLES AND INDEX

This volume, with its awkward title, "Tables of and annotated index to the Congressional series of United States public documents," but popularly referred to by its short back title "Tables and index," was issued in 1902. The Congressional tables at the beginning, arranged by serial numbers from the 15th to the 52d Congress, both inclusive, contain a revision of similar matter from the 2d edition of the Checklist. To these are added an index of 640 pages containing author and subject entries for the documents and reports of the Congresses covered (except those of a private or unimportant character), also several appendixes of historical interest. The work ended with the 52d Congress, because the Document catalogues began with the 53d. In the Tables and index a place was assigned for the folio edition of the American state papers, arranged by zero serial numbers at the head of the Congressional documents.

3D EDITION OF THE CHECKLIST

Ever since the 2d edition of the Checklist of public documents was issued in 1895, an effort has been made to gather material for a revised and enlarged edition on a much more comprehensive plan, a plan which contemplated, first, the bringing down to date of the Congressional tables, and, second, the inclusion of a classified arrangement of those publications which have emanated directly from the Executive Departments and independent Government publishing offices, indicating in the briefest possible way which were and which were not in the Congressional set.

For such a compilation the Public Documents Library offers rare facilities, because it contains the most complete file of United States public documents. Other large libraries may have as many, perhaps even more, United States documents of a particular class or on a particular subject, but nowhere else than in this library will be found in one spot so nearly complete a collection of the output of all Government publishing offices, past and present.

It should be borne in mind that this Checklist is based on the classification used in this office; that it is virtually a shelf list of the Public Documents Library; and that, with the comparatively few exceptions indicated by an asterisk (*), entries represent only those publications which are in our library. The Checklist therefore can not claim to list absolutely all of the publications of the Government; but in the case of many of the issuing offices our collection is thought to be complete, and the statement is undeniably true that this is by far the most extensive list of United States Congressional and departmental publications ever issued.

It is in the province of this Checklist to give only such information as is deemed essential for the purposes of a checklist, and it omits much information which would of course be given in a full catalogue. One of the most noticeable of such omissions is that, whereas full titles and dates of issue are given in entries for publications which do not belong to a numbered or dated series, for serial publications, such as Bulletins, Circulars, etc., the Checklist gives only their numbers and tells how many editions of each were printed, omitting their titles and dates of publication. In all cases this Checklist omits the collation, i. e., number of pages, illustrations, plates, maps, etc., unless such information is required in order to identify the document listed.

The 3d edition of the Checklist replaces the 2d edition and also that part of the "Tables and index" which gives the numerical lists of the American state papers and the Congressional tables. It does not, however, supplant the index to the "Tables and index."

In this 3d edition the American state papers appear first of all, arranged by zero numbers from 01 to 038. These are followed by the series of Congressional documents and reports, 15th–60th Congress, arranged by serial numbers from 1 to 5561. Then come the departmental publications arranged by Government authors.

Although under this scheme the Congressional series precedes the departmental publications, it seems desirable in this introduction to treat of the departmental publications first, because they form an overwhelmingly large proportion of the contents of the book.

DEPARTMENTAL PUBLICATIONS

The classification of departmental publications is naturally the first matter to be taken into consideration. When the Office of the Superintendent of Documents was organized, no scheme in existence was found adequate for the classification of a large library composed exclusively of United States Government publications. A special scheme suited to our needs was later evolved, as explained in the preface to "Department list 1, List of publications of Agriculture Department, 1862–1902," which was issued by the Superintendent of Documents in 1904. This classification, used with such success for the publications of the Department of Agriculture, has been applied to the publications of all Executive Departments and independent publishing offices, as shown in the present Checklist. The following explanation of the classification will, it is hoped, make the principles so clear that any library which desires to adopt this special scheme may experience no difficulties in its application.

The classification of departmental publications is by Government authors: first, by Departments or independent publishing offices; second, by bureaus, offices, or divisions of such Departments or independent publishing offices; third, by series; fourth, by book numbers.

Department symbol, first term in classification number

The first letter of the distinctive word in the name of each of the nine Executive Departments is used to designate the Department.

A = Agriculture Department.
C = Commerce and Labor Department.
I = Interior Department.
J = Justice Department.
N = Navy Department.
P = Post-Office Department.
S = State Department.
T = Treasury Department.
W = War Department.

Two letters are used for independent publishing offices.

AR = American Republics Bureau. [Since Aug. 1910, called Pan American Union.]
CS = Civil Service Commission.
DC = District of Columbia.
FC = Fish Commission. [Now under the Commerce and Labor Department.]
FS = Freedman's Savings and Trust Company.
GB = Geographic Board.
GP = Government Printing Office.
GS = General Supply Committee. [Now under Secretary of Treasury.]
IC = Interstate Commerce Commission.
Ju = Judiciary (United States courts, etc.).
La = Labor Department. [Now under the Commerce and Labor Department.]
LC = Library of Congress.
NA = National Academy of Sciences.
NH = National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.
Pr = President of United States.
PS = Postal Savings System. [Established June 25, 1910.]
SI = Smithsonian Institution.

Other Department symbols are:

X = Proceedings of Congress.
Y = Miscellaneous publications of Congress.
Z = Papers of Revolutionary period and first 14 Congresses.

This list gives all the Department symbols as yet required for the use of the Public Documents Library of this Office. The arrangement on the shelves should be strictly alphabetical by symbol, not by the word for which the symbol stands; that is, Commerce and Labor Department publications precede Civil Service Commission publications, because C precedes CS.

When bureaus, offices, divisions, etc., are transferred from one Executive Department to another, or when independent publishing offices become subordinate to an Executive Department, the old classification is retained for earlier issues and a new one assigned to publications issued after the transfer, double cross references being used.

Bureau, office, or division symbol, second term in classification number

The figure 1 following the Department symbol represents always the Secretary of the Executive Department or the chief executive officer of the independent publishing office.

Beginning with figure 2, the numbers are applied in numerical order to the various publishing bureaus, offices, and divisions, these having been arranged alphabetically when the classification was first applied. New offices are added at the end of the list of the Department and assigned the next number. This provides for a distinctive symbol for each without limit, though the alphabetical arrangement of new bureaus can not be kept up.

A point is placed after the bureau symbol to separate the Department and bureau notation from the rest of the classification number.

Examples:

A1. = Agriculture Department, Secretary.
A2. = Agriculture Department, Accounts and Disbursements Division.
A3. = Agriculture Department, Agrostology Division.
GP1. = Government Printing Office, Public Printer.
GP2. = Government Printing Office, Library.
GP3. = Government Printing Office, Documents Office.

Series symbol, third term in classification number

Figures 1, 2, 3, and 4, when written after the point as the third term in the classification number, are used exclusively for the following series of publications emanating from the various publishing offices:

.1=Annual reports.
.2=General publications.
.3=Bulletins.
.4=Circulars.

These four numbers are always assigned for these particular series, even though the bureau may not have issued any publications belonging there. "General publications" are publications of a miscellaneous character, which are not numbered or volumed in any series.

Beginning with figure 5 after the point, the various series are arranged alphabetically as far as possible, and are assigned numbers. New series are added at the end of the list. They take the next unused number.

A colon is placed after the series symbol to separate it from the individual book number.

Book number, fourth term in classification number

The book number follows the colon.

In the case of annual or periodical publications, the date is used as the book number, as :906. For a volumed series, the volume number is used, as :8. For a numbered series, the number is used, as :8. General publications and similar classes are arranged in alphabetical order under the most significant words of their titles, or under their subjects, the book numbers being assigned from the 2-figure Cutter Author table, as :B39, in which case B39 stands for Beet sugar, the distinctive word of the title.

In the Checklist, individual book numbers are given for everything arranged by book numbers taken from the Cutter Author table, except for separates, which are not entered at all, and for which the arrangement is only indicated, as :(CT). Individual book numbers are not given in certain series arranged by dates or by numbers, but in every such case the arrangement is indicated, as :(dates), or :(v. nos.), or :(nos.).

The superior letter (^{a}) always designates "separates," that is, excerpts from the publication bearing the same notation without the (^{a}). These separates are arranged in classes by themselves, immediately following the series from which they are taken.

The superior figures ($^{1-9}$) are used to differentiate between two publications which may of necessity be assigned the same symbol in the alphabetical classification, and also to distinguish between the various editions of the same serial or numbered publication.

Examples of complete classification numbers

The following examples of complete call numbers illustrate the principles outlined in the foregoing paragraphs on classification:

W1.1:909 ^{2} = War Department, Secretary, Annual reports, 1909, v. 2.

LC2.2:P84 = Library of Congress, Bibliography Division, General publication entitled List of books, with references to periodicals, relating to postal savings banks.

A19.3:56 ^{2} = Agriculture Department, Plant Industry Bureau, Bulletin 56, 2d edition.

A29.6:37 ^{10} = Agriculture Department, Weather Bureau, Monthly weather review, v. 37, no. 10.

These examples are sufficient to show how expansive this system is, yet how concise in its application.

Maps, Charts, and Specifications

Attention is called to the fact that in case of certain issuing offices which are large publishers of Government charts, maps, and specifications, no attempt is made in this Checklist to enter such publications. In all instances, however, where this happens, the classification of the series is clearly indicated, showing how the class would be booknumbered. This refers to such large classes as Geological Survey Topographic sheets (I 19.12:), Post route maps (P11.5:), Hydrographic Office Charts (N6.18:), Northern and Northwestern Lakes Survey Charts (W33.6:–W33.8:), Quartermaster's Department Specifications (W39.11:), etc.

CONGRESSIONAL NOTATION FOLLOWING ENTRIES FOR BUREAU EDITIONS

When a document appears both in a bureau edition and as a Congressional document, the bureau edition is entered in the Checklist and the serial number and Congressional document number are both added thus "[2309–269]," the first being the serial number and the second the document number in the Congressional set.

ANNUAL REPORTS CURTAILED BY EXECUTIVE ORDER

The Executive order of Jan. 20, 1906, issued by President Roosevelt, has had a far-reaching effect upon the issuance of Government publications, but only the salient features of the order can be referred to in this introduction. The order directed that the head of each Executive Department should appoint an advisory committee on printing and publication, and defined the duties of such committees; it also set forth rules governing the preparation of annual reports of the Departments. Certain large classes of matter were excluded from the annual reports; e. g., scientific treatises, articles by persons not connected with the reporting office, biographical and eulogistic matter relating to office personnel, texts of laws and court decisions (except in cases of great importance), etc.

The matter so debarred from publication in the series of annual reports has since appeared in other publications issued by the Department or its subordinate bureaus and offices, or perhaps has escaped printing altogether. Annual reports are now supposed to be confined to absolute essentials.

The order directed also that "Reports of officers who do not report directly to the head of an Executive Department shall not be printed in the annual report of a Department, but where necessary shall be summarized in the reports of the officials to whom such officers do report." The effect of this section is most clearly noted by reference to those annual reports of the Navy Department and its subordinate bureaus which have been issued since the President's order became operative.

ADVANCE SHEETS OF 3D EDITION OF THE CHECKLIST

A portion of this Checklist has appeared previously in the form of "Advance sheets" issued for the purpose of ascertaining necessary corrections and additions. They were discontinued for reasons which were fully explained in the Monthly catalogue for Dec. 1909, p. 227, 228, at the time of their discontinuance.

EARLY CONGRESS PAPERS

The classification (Z.) is reserved for the Papers of the Revolutionary Period and the first 14 Congresses. Under Z1. and Z2. are listed Government reprints of documents and journals of the Colonial and Revolutionary period; including among other publications the important series of American archives (Z1.1:), Elliot's debates on adoption of Federal Constitution (Z2.1:), Diplomatic correspondence of American Revolution (Z2.2:–Z2.4:), Journals of Continental Congress (Z2.5:–Z2.7:), etc.

Z3. includes the various miscellaneous publications, compilations, reprints, etc., of journals and documents of the first 14 Congresses, 1789–1817, with the exception of the 38 volume folio edition of American state papers, classed with zero numbers at the head of the regular series of Congressional documents (see p. 3, 4).

The original prints of the journals, documents, and reports of the first 14 Congresses have a special class (Z4.1:), arranged chronologically by the dates of ordering printed. The cards for these original prints are a priceless possession of this office; the bibliographical material was collected by a careful examination of the originals themselves in about a dozen large libraries especially rich in early Congress papers, and as it is so voluminous, it has been decided to publish it later in separate form. This decision relates only to the original prints of the first 14 Congresses, classed under Z4.1: Under Z1.–Z3. in the body of this Checklist will be found entries for other Early Congress papers.

CONGRESSIONAL SERIES

The Congressional series needs no introduction to Checklist readers. Its vagaries and idiosyncrasies are well-known and to say the least, interesting. One can not fail to be impressed with the increase in the amount of Congressional matter by a casual comparison between the 24 volumes of the 15th Congress and the corresponding 348 volumes for the 60th; and by the fact also that the 60th Congress alone published more than all the first 21 Congresses combined.

A hasty perusal of the titles given in the "Notes" columns of the Congressional tables (p. 5–169) will prove, even to the most prejudiced mind, that the much abused "sheep set" (as it used to be called, a name which has become a misnomer, because now the "sheep set" is bound in buckram) contains along with the prosaic and unreadable matter thousands of interesting documents of permanent historical and scientific value; e. g., annual reports of Executive Departments and their subordinate bureaus, reports of explorations and surveys into the vast unexplored parts of our great country, up-to-date information about the latest invention or discovery, statistical matter of all sorts, etc.

Serial numbers

This heterogeneous mass of Congressional publications has been correlated by the scheme of serial numbers devised by Dr. Ames as described above on p. XI in speaking of the 2d edition of the Checklist, which was the first publication in which the numbers appeared. Later they were reproduced with a few necessary changes in the "Tables and index," and now this 3d edition of the Checklist brings the serial numbers down to the close of the 60th Congress. For the serial numbers of later Congresses reference should be made to the Document indexes of this office.

For the convenience of those who may wish to refer to the list of serial numbers as found in publications of this office other than the present 3d edition of the Checklist, the following table is presented.

[a] No. 3142[2] is assigned to a volume of Senate miscellaneous documents of the 53d Congress, special session, Senate.

[b] On page 104 of Checklist of public documents, 2d edition, 1895, insert 3343, House miscellaneous documents, v. 17; insert 3344, House miscellaneous documents, v. 18; for 3343 as printed, read 3345; for 3344 as printed, read 3346.

[c] Serial numbers for the 53d Congress are also found in Advance sheets of 3d edition of Checklist of United States public documents, Congressional tables, 53d Congress, 9 pages.

[d] When "a" follows serial number, it is used for the Senate journals, to which no separate numbers are assigned.

[e] No. 5058 is assigned to the Senate journal, and no. 5059 to the House journal, 59th Congress, 2d session. Nos. 5058, 5059, and 5060 were originally assigned to the Document catalogue, 59th Congress, 1st session, and the Senate and House journals, 59th Congress, 2d session, respectively. The change was made because the Document catalogue covered both sessions and appeared as a document of the 2d session. There was, therefore, no House document 944, 59th Congress, 1st session.

[f] Serial numbers for the 59th Congress, 2d session, are found in Numerical tables and schedule of volumes, 59th Congress, 2d session, p. 117, as well as in the publications listed above.

Changes in certain serial numbers

The serial numbers in this 3d edition of the Checklist are with a few exceptions the same as those used in the 2d edition. The exceptions are indicated in the following table:

Serial numbers not possible for first 14 Congresses

Unfortunately it was not possible to apply the serial numbers to the first 14 Congresses, and the scheme therefore begins with the 15th Congress. The reasons for this will be made clear by an examination of the following excerpts from Congressional procedure.

On Dec. 8, 1813, it was resolved in the House of Representatives—

That henceforward all messages and communications from the President of the United States, all letters from the several departments of the Government, all motions and resolutions offered for the consideration of the House, all reports of committees of the House, and all other papers which in the usual course of proceeding or by special order of the House, shall be printed in octavo fold and separately from the Journals, shall have their pages numbered in one continuous series of numbers, commencing and terminating with each session.

On Dec. 14, 1813, it was ordered—

That the documents which were the subject of the order of the House of the 8th instant, instead of having their pages numbered in one continuous series of numbers from the commencement to the termination of each session, shall be themselves numbered in a regular series in the order of time in which they shall be directed to be printed: The number of each document to be distinctly marked on the top of the title-page and every subsequent page, in addition to the number of each page of such document.

Although this action was taken at the 2d session of the 13th Congress, and was immediately applied by the House to some of its documents, and while it is true that the Senate adopted a similar scheme at the 2d session of the 14th Congress for some of its publications, still, it is also true that in both Houses the orders as to size and numbering were not strictly adhered to until the commencement of the 1st session of the 15th Congress, for up to that time in both Houses appear a series of folio documents to which no numbers were affixed, and which could not, therefore, be embraced in a plan for "serial numbering." On Mar. 3, 1817, all the documents were brought into the numbered series by the passage of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the secretary of the Senate and clerk of the House of Representatives be directed, in making any further contracts for the printing of Congress, to stipulate and require that the same, excepting only the bills, or when otherwise specially directed by either House, shall be done in royal octavo form, the size of the pages to be the same as those of the laws of the United States, and that when any tables will not admit, with the use of a small type, of compression into that size, they shall be so printed as to fold conveniently into the volume.

Repeating the "document number"

The provision in the resolution of Dec. 14, 1813, that the number of each document shall be "distinctly marked on the top of the title-page and every subsequent page, in addition to the number of each page of such document," was observed to the commencement of the 2d session of the 33d Congress, when the "document number" was dropped from the top of all but the first page of the document. No evidence has been found of the repeal of this resolution.

The document number has been, however, carried as a part of the printer's signature mark on most of the documents, beginning with the 2d session of the 33d Congress; and since about the middle of Feb. 1904, during the 2d session of the 58th Congress, the signature marks of the upnumber carry also the number of the Congress and session. Certain large documents and certain annual reports have always been exceptions to this custom.

For some time prior to the 2d session of the 59th Congress, in some cases as early as the 2d session of the 49th Congress, the bound volumes of the Congressional reserve carried both a volume signature mark and an individual document signature mark; but beginning with the 2d session of the 59th Congress, the individual document signature mark, while retained on the upnumber, is eliminated from the bound volume (reserve). Therefore, the present custom in binding the Congressional reserve has resulted in only one appearance of the document number on each document, namely, on the top of the first page.

Arrangement of the documents

The separating of the committee reports from the other documents was begun by the House at the commencement of the 16th Congress, but the Senate did not adopt any plan of arrangement until the 30th Congress, 1st session, when the following plan was adopted by each House:

Journals.

Executive documents, containing communications from the President or the Executive Departments.

Miscellaneous documents, containing amendments, resolutions, petitions, memorials, and special reports of all kinds other than of committees.

Reports.

The above arrangement was in vogue through the 53d Congress, 3d session. Beginning with the 54th Congress, in accordance with provisions of the general printing act of Jan. 12, 1895, the four series in each House of Congress were reduced to three, by the consolidation of the former "executive documents" and "miscellaneous documents." From the 54th Congress, therefore, we have in each House only 3 series, namely, Journals, Documents, and Reports, the arrangement in each House being in the order just mentioned, from the beginning of the 54th Congress through the 1st session of the 57th. During this period, as well as prior thereto, all the publications of the Senate preceded those of the House.

Beginning with the 2d session of the 57th Congress, in order to facilitate the work of binding up the Congressional set, a change in the arrangement was made so as to bring both Journals and both series of Reports ahead of the Documents, and the order has since been as follows:

Senate journal.
House journal.
Senate reports.
House reports.
Senate documents.
House documents.

A serious problem in the arrangement of committee reports arose in the middle of the 58th Congress, 3d session, when under the provisions of the act of Jan. 20, 1905, the "usual number" of reports on private bills and on simple and concurrent resolutions could not be printed. This act necessitated the splitting up of committee reports into numbered volumes for reports on public bills and lettered volumes for reports on private bills and on simple and concurrent resolutions. The situation is very awkward, for the committee reports so separated into numbered and lettered volumes form in each House of Congress one consecutive set of report numbers, irrespective of their public or private nature. The solution of this difficult problem in arrangement is made evident by reference to the entries and footnotes for Senate and House reports of recent Congresses as listed between p. 139 and 164 of this Checklist.

Numbering of series

For many years Senate and House reports were each numbered consecutively through the whole Congress, no matter how many sessions were held, but for Senate and House documents a new series of numbers was begun with each session. Whereas this is true as a general rule, important exceptions must be noted, as follows:

From the 16th Congress to the 46th Congress, inclusive, House reports received new numbers at each session.

Beginning with the 2d session of the 60th Congress, in compliance with the act of Mar. 1, 1907, the documents as well as the reports are numbered throughout a Congress.

Sessional indexes to the Congressional set

Indexing was begun at the 15th Congress, 1st session, by the Senate, and at the 16th Congress, 1st session, by the House. At first these indexes were mere tables of contents, and it was many years before they really deserved the name of index. For the 15th, 16th, and the first half of the 17th Congress, the indexes were contained sometimes in the first and sometimes in the last volume of the series indexed, and on occasions they appeared in more than one volume of the set. It was not, however, until the 2d session of the 17th Congress, that the various indexes of the several series were systematically repeated in all volumes of that series, except when a single document filled a whole volume, in which case the index was sometimes omitted from that volume. This was the general practice until the close of the 53d Congress, at which time there were 6 series of Congressional documents and reports, each of which had its own index, and that index was repeated in all volumes of that series. The repetition of these indexes was done away with by sec. 62 of the act of Jan. 12, 1895, which substituted for the 6 indexes a one-volumed "consolidated index." This "consolidated index," or "Document index" as it is popularly called, has been prepared and issued by the Superintendent of Documents regularly, beginning with the 54th Congress, 1st session. The Document index is an integral part of the Congressional series and bears its own House document number, usually the last, or the next to the last, document number for the session.

Title-pages and "back titles"

The appended list (p. 175–184) contains bibliographical matter which could not be conveniently introduced into the Congressional tables (p. 5–169). As will be seen by reference to this list, the systematic arrangement of the volumes is greatly impeded by the lack of title-pages or their peculiar and varied construction. The "back titles" or "binder's titles," which present the only means of identification when no title-pages appear, are even more aggravating in their variety. For example, the top "band" was adopted for the "series title," and reads "State papers, 1st sess., 18th Congress" for v. 6, but v. 7 of the same series reads "Commercial regulations." It seems to have been the rule to drop the series title on the back whenever the document filled a volume, even when no series title-page was provided.

Although volume title-pages frequently appeared in the Congressional set through the 32d Congress, it was not until the 33d Congress that the custom of providing title-pages became a regular practice; this practice was continued through the 53d Congress. From the 54th Congress through the 58th Congress, volume title-pages were again omitted, but beginning with the 59th Congress they have been resumed.

Annual reports and serial publications for depository libraries

It seems needless here to enter into any elaborate explanation of the operation of the proviso attached to sec. 1 of the joint resolution approved Jan. 15, 1908, which removed from the Congressional set as distributed to depository libraries the annual reports, periodicals, and serially numbered publications of the Executive Departments, bureaus, and commissions. This resolution became effective with the 1st session of the 60th Congress.

In that part of this Checklist which relates to the Congressional series of the 60th Congress, 1st and 2d sessions (see p. 156–169) heavy figures for volume numbers in the 2d column indicate volumes forwarded to depository libraries in the Congressional edition with report or document numbers and bearing the titles and volume numbers of the Congressional series. Light figures in the 2d column indicate volumes of annual reports and serial publications which, under the provisions of the joint resolution of Jan. 15, 1908, were taken out of the Congressional set for depository libraries; these volumes are sent to depository libraries in buckram binding, without Congressional notation, and having title-pages in conformity with the departmental issues.

Readers who are anxious for a more detailed explanation of the legislative history and the practical operation of this joint resolution are referred to Monthly catalogues, Jan. 1908, p. 263–272, and Feb. 1910, p. 373–378; also to the preface to the Document index of the 60th Congress, 1st session.

FIRST 14 CONGRESSES

AMERICAN STATE PAPERS

[The lack of information as to the documents and reports printed by order of the first 14 Congresses, while greatly to be deplored, is easily accounted for. The printing during the very early Congresses was done without any general provision of law as to what should be printed. The discretion in this matter was reposed in the secretary of the Senate and the clerk of the House of Representatives, and the limited editions thus ordered account for the scarcity of the original prints. Even as early as 1829, when an attempt was made to reprint the more important of these early papers, it was reported to Representative Barringer by the clerk of the House, that from 1793 to 1803 not a vestige of manuscript, and only a scattered few printed copies, were extant (Congressional debates, v. 5, p. 376).

The destruction of the Capitol in 1814 practically destroyed the entire reserve and heightened the interest in a reprint of the documents in a more accessible form. Year after year attempts were made to accomplish this end, but political feuds and personal animosities created much dissension and spirited debate, and it was not until Mar. 2, 1831, that the following bill was presented for the third reading and passed:

> Be it enacted, etc., That the clerk of the House of Representatives hereby is authorized and directed to subscribe for 750 copies of the compilation of the Congressional documents proposed to be made by Gales & Seaton: Provided, That the documents shall be selected under the direction of the secretary of the Senate and the clerk of the House: And provided also, That the price paid for the printing of copies shall be at the rate not exceeding that of the price paid to the printer of Congress for printing the documents of the two Houses.

In a speech on that date, in reply to a scathing opposing tirade on the part of Mr. Jesse Speight of North Carolina, Mr. William Drayton of South Carolina said:

> The documents referred to comprehend those state papers of the Executive and its departments, and those reports of both branches of Congress, which are of peculiar importance from their throwing light upon the principles of the interior and exterior policy of our Government during the long interval which elapsed from the adoption of the Federal Constitution to the year 1813. The contents of these papers are known to but few. Of many of them there are but 2 or 3 copies now extant, and others of them are only to be found in manuscript in the possession of a small number of persons. Surely the records of the United States, upon subjects which ought to be familiar to every Senator and Representative, should be easily attainable, and yet the reverse is notoriously the fact.

The American state papers in 38 folio volumes which were the outcome of the above quoted act of Mar. 2, 1831 (Stat. L. v. 4, p. 471), and of the subsequent joint resolution of Mar. 2, 1833 (Stat. L. v. 4, p. 669), and act of June 12, 1858 (Stat. L. v. 11, p. 328) were printed by Gales and Seaton as stipulated. Twenty-one volumes were prepared under the provisions of the first named act and resolution, and 17 volumes under those of the last act. They comprise the most important executive and legislative documents of the United States, selected by the secretary of the Senate and the clerk of the House of Representatives from the mass of manuscript and printed papers in the offices of the two Houses of Congress and in the several Executive Departments. The series covers a period commencing with 1789 and ending with dates varying from 1823 to 1838. Each volume contains an index to the contents of that volume. Congress had acted none too soon, for the compilers say, "The great mass of these documents were to be found only in the archives of the two Houses. No complete set of them existed in any other place. In addition to this, many exist only in the manuscript records of the two Houses," and it may be added that the manuscript records of the two Houses were at that time already incomplete.

During the time that these volumes were being printed, 1832–61, there were 2 secretaries of the Senate, Walter Lowrie and Asbury Dickins, and 10 different clerks of the House. The names of both of the former appear as editors, while of the latter, editorship is ascribed only to Matthew St. Clair Clarke, Walter S. Franklin, John W. Forney, and James C. Allen. The chief compiler, whose name is not mentioned in any of the volumes, was General William Hickey who was chief clerk in the office of the secretary of the Senate during the whole period of the compilation and publication of the series and who was in his day an authority on the subject of United States public documents.

New sets of numbers were created for the use of the Gales and Seaton compilation. There is a set for each of the 10 classes in which the documents are arranged, namely, Class 1, Foreign relations, 6 v.; Class 2, Indian affairs, 2 v.; Class 3, Finance, 5 v.; Class 4, Commerce and navigation, 2 v.; Class 5, Military affairs, 7 v.; Class 6, Naval affairs, 4 v.; Class 7, Post-Office Department, 1 v.; Class 8, Public lands, 8 v.; Class 9, Claims, 1 v.; Class 10, Miscellaneous, 2 v. The documents are arranged in chronological order and numbered, beginning with the first document in v. 1 of each class and running in consecutive order through all the volumes of that class. For the first 12 Congresses, in which the documents were not numbered when published, the numbers given to the reprints mattered little one way or the other, but reprints from later Congresses, which had been originally printed in one or the other of the Congressional numbered series, are reprinted under the new numbers only, the original numbers being dropped and no mention made of them.

The following table shows: 1st, the serial number used as the class number in the Public Documents Library; 2d, the classes and number of volumes in each class; 3d, the Congresses and sessions to which were presented the papers included in each volume; 4th, the period covered—the dates being the earliest and latest on which the documents were presented to Congress, and not necessarily the dates as given on the title-pages.]

† This volume contains misplaced documents communicated to the Senate, Dec. 13, 1831 (no. 612) and Mar. 3, 1836 (no. 611).

‡ No. 257 was communicated, Mar. 5, 1825, at the special session of the Senate, 19th Congress, held Mar. 4–9, 1825.

§ Another edition of 5 volumes having the back-title American state papers and relating to public lands was issued by Duff Green (Z3.1:1–5). These volumes were all edited by Walter Lowrie, secretary of the Senate, who, according to the title-page was given authority for his work by the Senate. The editors for the Gales and Seaton set of 8 volumes relating to public lands were, in each case, the secretary of the Senate and the clerk of the House of Representatives, and the name of Lowrie does not appear in any except the first 3 volumes. The imprint date for the Duff Green set was 1834 for all 5 volumes, while the dates in the public lands set printed by Gales and Seaton vary for the first 5 volumes from 1832 to 1860. The first 3 volumes of both sets evidently contain the same documents although the tables of contents and indexes in the first 2 volumes differ. Beginning with v. 4 there are many differences, the regular set containing some documents not given in the Duff Green set at all. The periods covered by the last 2 volumes of the Duff Green set are as follows: v. 4, Dec. 7, 1824, 18th Congress, 2d session–Jan. 2, 1828, 20th Congress, 1st session; v. 5, Jan. 4, 1828, 20th Congress, 1st session–Jan. 31, 1834, 23d Congress, 1st session. The regular set of 8 volumes carries the work through the 2d session of the 24th Congress with Feb. 28, 1837, as the final date.

NOTE.—In accordance with the usage of the Congressional record and its predecessors—the Annals of Congress, the Register of debates, and the Congressional globe—this Checklist uses the legislative day for the termination of the sessions of the first 56 Congresses and the calendar day, beginning with the 57th Congress.

The practice of Congress in this connection is based on the fact that it does not recognize the calendar day, but recognizes the legislative day. The legislative day of the 3d of March does not expire until 12 o'clock noon on the 4th of March. Practice construes the law. On Mar. 3, 1851, a resolution was offered in the House of Representatives to test this question, and on the ruling of the Speaker it was decided that the Congress expired at noon on the 4th of March; which ruling has been in effect ever since (Hinds' precedents of House of Representatives, v. 5, p. 863). Action to the same effect was taken in the Senate on the same day (Hinds' precedents, v. 5, p. 862).

In these Congressional tables, titles are usually given in the "Notes" column for the largest document in each volume; when this is the first in the volume, its document number is not specified.

Numbers missing from serial no. 5219 are for reports on private bills and on simple and concurrent resolutions,† which are bound in Senate reports, v. A–C, serial nos. 5222–5224.

† The lettered volumes contain only the reports on private bills and on simple and concurrent resolutions. Under the provisions of the act of Jan. 20, 1905 (Stat. L. v. 33, pt. 1, p. 610), the "usual number" of such reports could not be printed. These volumes can not be furnished to depository libraries, but copies are kept in the Senate and House libraries, the Library of Congress, and the Public Documents Library. Many of the reports on simple and concurrent resolutions are unmistakably of a public character, but the result of the aforementioned act was to relegate these, along with the reports on resolutions of a private character, to the lettered volumes, of which only a few copies are preserved. An exception was made for one session only, that is, the 1st session of the 60th Congress, when under authorization of the Joint Committee on Printing of which the late Senator Platt was chairman, such reports on simple and concurrent resolutions as were of a public character were treated as public instead of as private reports, and therefore were printed in the "usual number" and appeared in the numbered volumes of public reports.

No serial numbers were assigned to the lettered volumes of reports on private bills and on simple and concurrent resolutions of the 58th Congress, 3d session, and the 59th Congress, 1st and 2d sessions, in order to avoid gaps in the serial numbers for volumes sent to depository libraries since the act of Jan. 20, 1905, went into effect. Beginning with the 60th Congress, 1st session, serial nos. 5222 and 5229, this reason no longer held, because the joint resolution of Jan. 15, 1908 (Stat. L. v. 35, pt. 1, p. 565) took out also annual reports and serial publications from the Congressional series as sent to depository libraries. Therefore, for the 60th Congress serial numbers have been assigned to all volumes, both numbered and lettered.

For many years prior to the 60th Congress, Senate and House reports were each numbered consecutively through the whole Congress, no matter how many sessions were held, but for Senate and House documents a new series of numbers was begun with each session. Under the act of Mar. 1, 1907 (Stat. L. v. 34, pt. 1, p. 1014), the documents, as well as the reports, are numbered throughout the Congress. This act became operative with the 2d session of the 60th Congress. The first Senate document of that session is number 538, in serial nos. 5388 and 5389, and the first House document is number 988, in serial no. 5501.

Heavy figures for volume numbers in the 2d column indicate volumes forwarded to depository libraries in the Congressional edition with report or document numbers and bearing the titles and volume numbers of the Congressional series. Light figures in the 2d column indicate volumes of annual reports and serial publications which, under the provisions of the joint resolution of Jan. 15, 1908 (Stat. L. v. 35, pt. 1, p. 565), were taken out of the Congressional set for depository libraries; these volumes are sent to depository libraries in buckram binding, without Congressional notation, and having title-pages in conformity with the Departmental issues.

A. AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT

[By an appropriation for the collection of agricultural statistics, Mar. 3, 1839, an agricultural section was established in the Patent Office. The section continued until May 15, 1862, when it was made a separate Department, though it was not until Feb. 9, 1889, that it was raised to the dignity of a Cabinet office.

See, for Historical sketch of Department of Agriculture, A21.3: 3[1-3]. See, for Organization of Department of Agriculture, the various editions under A21.4:1. See, for articles containing information relative to the work of certain bureaus of the Department for the farmer, Yearbook, 1897 (A1.10:897).

A1.1: Annual reports

[The annual report on agriculture began in 1837 with a two-page statement in the report of Henry L. Ellsworth, commissioner of patents. From that date to 1861 it formed a part of the report of the commissioner of patents, making a separate volume after 1849.

In 1862 the Department of Agriculture was established, and its annual report was uniformly issued up to 1893. Beginning with the report for 1894, in accordance with paragraph 2, sec. 73, of the printing act of Jan. 12, 1895, two separate publications have been issued, one, the report proper (A1.1:), containing the Secretary's report and the purely executive reports of the several chiefs of bureaus, divisions, and offices; the other, known as the Yearbook (A1.10:), embracing the Secretary's report and a collection of special articles on agricultural science.

The title of the head of the Department was commissioner of agriculture until 1889, when he became Secretary of Agriculture and a member of the Cabinet.

See, for Index to annual reports of Department of Agriculture, 1837-93, A21.3:1.

†This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. The Agriculture Department has since made radical changes in the two series of publications formerly issued by the Food and Drug Inspection Board and entered in this Checklist under A32.5: and A32.6: These publications, since the early part of 1910, appear without the name of the board and over the signature of the Secretary of Agriculture, although the board is still (Mar. 2, 1910) in existence. See, for further information, entries and footnote under A32.5: and A32.6:

This change has necessitated the continuation of these two series under A1., two additional classes having been assigned, the series titles of which are as follows:

A1.15: (nos.) Food inspection decisions

A1.16: (nos.) Notices of judgment, food and drugs act

Classification no.

A2. ACCOUNTS AND DISBURSEMENTS DIVISION—Continued

A2.4: Circulars

(nos.) [None issued.]

A2.5: Expenditures of Department of Agriculture

[The Department of Agriculture has made a yearly statement of expenditures, by fiscal years, under act making appropriation for Agriculture Department for fiscal year 1886, approved Mar. 3, 1885. No bureau editions of these have been printed, except for 1906. The list below shows where these statements are to be found in the Congressional set. For fiscal year 1908, a similar statement for the Department of Agriculture (exclusive of Forest Service) forms a part of the document bearing title Combined report of expenditures during fiscal year 1908, appropriations for fiscal year 1909, and expenditures proposed for fiscal year 1910, for which see [5484-1221]. Expenditures for fiscal year 1909 appear also in a document of the next year with similar title, for which see [5774-421].

A6.5: Contributions from U. S. national herbarium

[The U. S. National Herbarium had its beginning in the botanical collections which came into the possession of the Smithsonian Institution from the various exploring expeditions of the United States Government and of the Smithsonian Institution. It was transferred to the custody of the Agriculture Department in 1868 and returned to the Smithsonian Institution July 1, 1896. The Agriculture Department, however, continued to publish this series of botanical reports until July 1, 1902, when, in pursuance of an act of Congress, the National Museum assumed the responsibility of the publication.]

A10. EXPERIMENT STATIONS OFFICE

[Established July 1, 1888. See, for history of office, Historical sketch of Department of Agriculture (A21.3:3 [1-3]) and Yearbook, 1897 (A1 10:897).]

A10.1[1]: (date) Annual reports of director (to Secretary of Agriculture)

[1888–1909, in annual reports of Agriculture Department (A1.1:), and issued separately also.]

A10.1[2]: (date) Annual reports of Office of Experiment Stations (to Congress)

[By provision of the act establishing experiment stations in connection with the agricultural colleges in the various States and Territories, approved Mar. 2, 1887, the stations were required to send to the governors of their respective States or Territories, for transmission to the Secretary of Agriculture, on or before Feb. 1 of each year, a statement of their receipts and expenditures, with an outline of the work accomplished.

It was not, however, until the approval of the agricultural appropriation act of Aug. 8, 1894, that provision was made for sending to Congress an annual report based upon these returns. The report for the fiscal year 1895, the one called for in the act, was laid before the Senate Apr. 7, 1896, and referred to the Committee on Printing, who reported a concurrent resolution providing for its publication as a document, with 2,000 additional copies for the use of the Agriculture Department. The resolution passed the Senate, but did not receive the sanction of the House, and the report therefore was never printed.

The 2d report, 1896, called for by Congress, was printed as Senate document 137, 54th Congress, 2d session; serial no. 3470.

The 3d report, 1897, was printed as House document 205, 55th Congress, 2d session; serial no. 3667, and also as Bulletin 50, Experiment Stations Office.

The 4th report, 1898, was printed as House document 121, 55th Congress, 3d session; serial no. 3768, and also as Bulletin 61, Experiment Stations Office.

The 5th report, 1899, was printed as House document 500, 56th Congress, 1st session; serial no. 3929, and also as Bulletin 83, Experiment Stations Office.

The 6th report, 1900, was printed as House document 336, 56th Congress, 2d session; serial no. 4116, and also as Bulletin 93, Experiment Stations Office.

The 7th report, 1901, and succeeding reports have appeared in both bureau and Congressional editions as shown below.]

[Discontinued.]

A10.6: Experiment station record

(v. nos.)

[Contains numerous abstracts of the publications of the agricultural experiment stations and kindred institutions in this and other countries; articles and editorials on topics of special interest in agricultural science by American and foreign experts; and notes on the experiment stations. In the first 3 volumes of the Record the abstracts of the station reports were grouped by stations, arranged alphabetically by States. Beginning with v. 4, an arrangement by topics was adopted, each topic being edited by the Department's expert in that line. With but few exceptions each number also contained a paper by some noted authority on a particular subject.

Beginning with v. 5, the numbers were not issued regularly every month, although each volume includes 12 numbers. For this reason the numbers do not bear dates. Beginning with v. 14, the Record was again issued monthly, each number being dated.

Beginning with v. 20, the plan was adopted of issuing quarterly "abstract" numbers, in order to provide for the publication of accumulated material which could not be crowded into the monthly numbers, the size of which is restricted by law. Except for the fact that these "abstract" numbers contain no editorial notes and only a limited number of current notes, they are exactly like the regular monthly numbers, being numbered and paged consecutively in the series.

With v. 20, the change is also made from 1 volume a year, ending with August, to 2 volumes a year, ending with December and June.]

† This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. The Experiment Stations Office has since begun a new series of Food charts which differs materially from the former series of Food and diet charts (A10.7:). This has necessitated an additional class under A10., the series title of which is as follows:

A13.8: Field program [and Service notes] 8° and 16° [Monthly.]

[From Aug. 1904 to Sept. 1906, title reads Field programme; from Oct. 1906 to June, 1909, form used is Field program. Since Nov. 1906, a portion of the publication has been devoted to Service notes. Beginning Apr. 1907, Service orders and National forest orders, which were formerly usually issued in mimeographed form only, have been printed here. With July, 1909, the size of the publication was reduced to 16° and the title slightly changed by including the name of the month at the beginning instead of at the end.
Beginning July, 1905, the book number used is the date of the fiscal year.]

† This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. The Library of the Department of Agriculture has since discontinued the Accessions to Department library, which from 1894 to 1909 was issued quarterly and incorporated in the regular series of Bulletins (A17.3:), the last Accessions list so issued being no. 74. The Library has substituted a new series of publications, the first issue being v. 1, no. 1, Jan. 1910. This has necessitated an additional class under A17., the series title of which is as follows:

†Beginning with Jan. 1911, the Division of Publications has issued certain Circulars (A21.4:7–18, etc.) each of which lists available publications of individual bureaus or divisions of the Department of Agriculture. These Publications Division Circulars supersede certain previous lists issued by the Publications Division, such as A21.4:2, 3, and also similar lists formerly issued by other bureaus and divisions of the Department. These new Circulars do not cover the same ground as some of the previous lists, because they contain entries for available publications only and are not complete lists.

A23. SEED AND PLANT INTRODUCTION SECTION

[Organized under appropriation act taking effect July 1, 1898 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 337). At first it was a section of the Seed Division, though "the special agent in charge was responsible directly to the Secretary of Agriculture." Transferred to the Division of Botany by order dated Oct. 28, 1898; see annual report of Agriculture Department, 1899, p. 54, 55 (A1.1:899). Separated from Division of Botany and made independent publishing office about Jan. 1, 1901. Merged into Plant Industry Bureau, July 1, 1901. See A19.]

A23.1: Annual reports

(date) [A "Report of special agent in charge of seed and plant introduction," dated Sept. 17, 1898, appears in annual report of Agriculture Department for 1898 (A1.1:898), p. 3, 4. No other signed reports appear, the work for succeeding years being reported upon by other officials of the Department of Agriculture.]

Crop circulars

[The first issue of the Crop circular, May, 1898, states that "Crop circulars will hereafter take the place of the crop reports, new series, issued monthly (except January), and will consist of the information contained in the telegraphic reports of the 10th of each month, with such additions as will enhance its value to the farmers and as the circular form will permit. Special crop reports will not be abandoned, but their issue will depend upon the seasonableness and importance of the subject and not upon a fixed date."]

Crop reporter 4° [Monthly.]

[Announcement (v. 2, no. 1, May, 1900): "The Crop reporter, although issued originally as a convenient medium of communication between the Division of Statistics and its crop reporters, has necessarily contained considerable matter of interest to the general public. The result has been to bring many requests for copies of the Reporter from persons other than crop correspondents. Hitherto it has not been possible to comply with these requests, but * * * the increasing frequency of requests for copies * * * has resulted * * * in the conclusion to so modify the confidential character of the Crop reporter as to make it available for general distribution, and hereafter it will be mailed regularly on request, as far as the resources for printing and mailing permit."]

[Contain reports on condition of crops, and special subjects of interest to farmers. Issued as "Monthly" or "Bi-monthly report" of Department from May, 1863, to Dec. 1876, when the series was discontinued and the issue of the statistical matter was transferred to the series of "Special reports" (A1.6:) and there appeared under various numbers, not always consecutive, from Jan. 1877, to Sept. 1883. Another change was made in Oct. 1883, when "New series, report 1," appeared containing the crop statistics. This last series was continued, consecutively numbered, up to 155, Dec. 1897. No. 156 was issued Apr. 20, 1899. From May, 1898, to Apr. 1900, the statistics were issued in a "Crop circular" (A27.5:). Beginning with May, 1900, they were merged into the "Crop reporter" (A27.6:). A "Synoptical index" of this series was issued by the Department in 1897 (A21.3:2), but as it did not give a table of the various reports of the statistician, indexed under the comprehensive title "Reports of the statistician," it can not be definitely determined whether the present collation includes all or more than the index. All reports of the statistician relative to crops and farm animals have, however, been included. The volume numbers are assigned to the yearly groups of reports to facilitate listing and reference.]

A28. VEGETABLE PHYSIOLOGY AND PATHOLOGY DIVISION

[In 1886 a Mycological Section was formed in the Division of Botany. This was called the Section of Vegetable Pathology from 1887 until 1890, when it became an independent division under act of July 14, 1890 (Stat. L. v. 26, p. 283). Mar. 2, 1895, the name changed to Division of Vegetable Physiology and Pathology. This was merged into the Bureau of Plant Industry, July 1, 1901; see A19. See, for information concerning division, Historical sketch of Department of Agriculture (A21.3:31-3).]

A29. WEATHER BUREAU

[The work of the Weather Bureau had its beginning in the collection of meteorological data under the Smithsonian Institution and several Departments of the Government in the first half of the 19th century. From 1870, the work was conducted by the Signal Office, War Dept. (W42.), until by act approved Oct. 1, 1890 (Stat. L. v. 26, p. 653), the Weather Bureau as such was officially recognized and transferred to the Department of Agriculture, the transfer taking place July 1, 1891.
See, for earlier publications, W42.
See, for information concerning bureau, Historical sketch of Department of Agriculture (A21.3:3[1-3]).]

A29.1: Annual reports 4° with few exceptions

[From 1891 to 1895, the administrative reports and the scientific reports appeared separately, the former in 8° being reprints of the reports as found in annual reports of Agriculture Department (A1.1:), and the latter in 4° being a continuation of the series of meteorological data collected by Signal Office, War Dept. (W42.).
From 1896 to 1909, the Report of chief of Weather Bureau is a 4° volume consisting of an administrative report for the fiscal year (since 1897 called pt. 1 of the volume), and meteorological tables for the preceding calendar year, etc. (also numbered as parts). The 4° administrative reports are not issued separately, with the exception of 1896 (A29.1[a2]:896). They differ in some respects from the 8° prints as found in annual reports of Agriculture Department. The 8° prints are issued separately each year and are classed under A29.1[a1]: From 1901 to 1908, the administrative reports as found in annual reports of Agriculture Department have been reprinted also in the annual summary of the Monthly weather review (A29.6:).]

A29.6[a1]: Monthly weather review (separates; Climatological Service of Weather Bureau, district reports)

(district nos. and date)

[Prior to July, 1909, the data included here appeared in the monthly bulletins issued by the various sections of the Climatological Service for the United States proper. Beginning with July, 1909, the method of publication was radically changed, as described in detail on p. 266 of Monthly weather review, v. 37, no. 7, July, 1909 (A29.6:37[7]).

The United States has been divided into 12 large districts, generally having the same boundaries as the great drainage basins of the country, these boundaries being marked off by the natural topographic divides, as follows:

District 1, North Atlantic States	District 7, Lower Mississippi Valley
District 2, South Atlantic and east Gulf States	District 8, Texas and Rio Grande Valley
District 3, Ohio Valley	District 9, Colorado Valley
District 4, Lake region	District 10, Great Basin
District 5, Upper Mississippi Valley	District 11, California
District 6, Missouri Valley	District 12, Columbia Valley

Reports for each of these 12 districts, which since July, 1909, have appeared in Monthly weather review (A29.6:), are also issued separately each month. In assigning book numbers for these separates, use the number of the district, with date as superior number.]

A29.6[a2]: Monthly weather review (separates; miscellaneous)

(CT)

[Some of the more important articles in the Review have been issued separately in pamphlet form.]

A29.7: National weather bulletin 24 × 19 in.

[The National weather bulletin is issued weekly from April to about the end of September, during the season of planting, cultivating, and harvesting of crops, and monthly from October to March; but in 1909, the first weekly issue appeared May 18, the monthly being continued through April. It was known as the Weather-crop bulletin from Jan. 1, 1891, until Feb. 1896, when the name was changed to Climate and crop bulletin. With issue for Aug. 29, 1904, the title Weather-crop bulletin was resumed. With Feb. 1906, the form National weather bulletin was adopted. This publication deals with the general weather conditions of the United States, while weekly bulletins showing more detailed information are issued for Iowa during the crop season, and for Hawaii and Porto Rico throughout the year, from the central stations of those sections. A weather bulletin of the cotton region is published weekly at New Orleans from about May 1 to Nov. 1. Cotton region bulletins containing temperature and rainfall observations reported by telegraph from about 180 stations in the Southern States are issued daily from 13 district centers in the cotton belt and 13 other stations, from Apr. 16 to Oct. 31. Corn and wheat region bulletins, similar in character to the preceding, are issued daily from 9 district centers in the corn and wheat belt and 3 other stations, from Apr. 1 to Sept. 30.]

A29.16: Snow and ice bulletin

[Issue began Feb. 1892. Appeared in weekly numbers from early in December to latter part of March. First title, Depth of snow on ground, used to Mar. 30, 1896; changed to Snow and ice chart, and continued under that name until Feb. 21, 1899, when the present title was substituted. Shows area covered by snow, its depth, and the thickness of ice in rivers and harbors.

Ice reports for the Great Lakes, giving in greater detail the ice conditions, especially with reference to the resumption of navigation, are issued at Detroit weekly during March and April.

Snowfall bulletins for 12 mountain States and Territories of the West, reporting in detail the depths and condition of snow at high levels, with special reference to the prospective supply of water for irrigation during the following spring and summer, are issued monthly during the winter season, usually for the four months December to March, inclusive, at the respective central stations.]

Weather map 19 × 24 in.

[This publication, issued at the Weather Bureau in Washington, is the only Government publication issued every day in the year, Sundays and holidays included. For information as to the varying prints of the Washington map since July 1, 1901, see note in list below, immediately preceding that date.

At 116 stations † of the Weather Bureau smaller weather maps are issued daily, except Sundays and holidays. At some of the less important stations, bulletins containing practically the same meteorological data that appear on the weather maps, are issued.

To an extent permitted by the editions, the maps and bulletins are furnished free of charge to business and commercial exchanges, corporations, firms, individuals, and educational institutions that will display them for the benefit of the public or use them for educational purposes.

Issued by Signal Office, War Dept., tri-daily from Jan. 1, 1871, 7.35 a. m., to June 30, 1888; semi-daily, July 1, 1888, to June 30, 1891. See W42.23:]

† The number of stations of the Weather Bureau from which weather maps are issued is subject to change. At the close of the calendar year 1909, when this Checklist ends, there were 198 stations, 116 of which issued weather maps. Since that date, the issue of maps from a large number of these stations has been discontinued.

A29. WEATHER BUREAU—Continued

[Beginning with July 1, 1901, there are 2 prints of the Washington map, except on Sundays and holidays when only 1 print appears, these Sunday and holiday maps including the additional information which on week days appears only on the later issue. In so far as the data as found on the map itself are concerned the 2 prints are identical; but the 1st print contains only the forecasts prepared at Washington and applicable to the Washington forecast district, whereas the 2d print contains the forecasts for the entire United States, which is divided into 6 forecast districts, the centers of which are: Chicago, Denver, New Orleans, Portland, Oreg., San Francisco, and Washington. It will be noted, therefore, that for every day in the week, including Sundays, forecasts for various districts in the United States appear on the Washington map, the Sunday map, however, containing forecasts for a limited number of the districts. For the days when 2 prints appear the forecast data on the 1st print are limited to the Northeastern, middle Eastern, and Southeastern States.

Although 2d prints of the Washington map have been appearing since July 1, 1901, the Public Documents Library has none of the 2d prints prior to Feb. 1, 1909.]

†This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. Early in 1910 radical changes were made in the two series of publications entered under A32.5: and A32.6: These publications now appear without the name of the Food and Drug Inspection Board, and over the signature of the Secretary of Agriculture, although the board is still (Mar. 2, 1910) in existence.

This change has necessitated the continuation of these two series under the office of the Secretary of Agriculture. Food inspection decisions 111 and 112 were issued Jan. 27, 1910, by the board, and although not entered in this Checklist are to be classed under A32.5:111, 112. Beginning with no. 113, the Food inspection decisions, formerly under A32.5: are to be continued under A1.15: Beginning with no. 123, the Notices of judgment, formerly under A32.6: are to be continued under A1.16:

AR. AMERICAN REPUBLICS BUREAU †

[The International Bureau of American Republics was created by the 1st International American Conference held in Washington, D. C., Oct. 2, 1889–Apr. 19, 1890, and was confirmed and reorganized by the 2d and 3d International American Conferences held respectively in Mexico City, Oct. 22, 1901–Jan. 31, 1902, and in Rio de Janeiro, July 21–Aug. 26, 1906. This bureau is an international organization supported by contributions of the 21 Republics in this hemisphere, who have an equal interest in the institution.

The bureau was organized in 1890, under the supervision of the Secretary of State of the United States, acting at the request of the 1st conference, and under authority of act of Congress approved July 14, 1890 (Stat. L. v. 26, p. 275). Mar. 18, 1899, at a conference of diplomatic representatives of the countries composing the International Union of American Republics it was unanimously agreed, that "the Bureau of American Republics shall be governed under the supervision of the Secretary of State of the United States with the cooperation and advice of four representatives of the other Republics composing the International Union, the five persons indicated to constitute an executive committee of which the Secretary of State is to be ex-officio chairman, or in his absence, the acting Secretary of State." At the 2d International American Conference, held in Mexico, it was resolved as follows: "Article 1. The International Bureau of the American Republics shall be under the control of a Governing Board composed of the diplomatic representatives of all the Governments of said Republics accredited near the Government of the United States of America, and of the Secretary of State of the latter nation, who shall be the chairman of said board." The 3d International American Conference enlarged the scope of the bureau without materially altering its status or organization.

Notwithstanding the fact of its close connection with the Secretary of State, it has never been, strictly speaking, a division of the State Department of the United States.

† In accordance with a resolution passed and signed by the 4th International American Conference held in Buenos Aires, July 12–Aug. 30, 1910, the name of the American Republics Bureau was changed to Pan American Union. As this Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909, it uses the form "American Republics Bureau." In accordance with the resolution above referred to, the title of the director was changed to "director general" and the title of the secretary to "assistant director."

This bureau is the custodian of the archives of the International American Conferences, and is especially charged with the performance of duties imposed upon it by these conferences. See also, for publications of 1st–3d International American Conferences, S5.9[1-3]:

C. COMMERCE AND LABOR DEPARTMENT

[The act to establish the Department of Commerce and Labor, approved Feb. 14, 1903 (Stat. L. v. 32, pt. 1, p. 825), includes the following provisions:

That there shall be at the seat of government an executive department to be known as the Department of Commerce and Labor, and a Secretary of Commerce and Labor, who shall be the head thereof. * * *

SEC. 4. That the following-named offices, bureaus, divisions, and branches of the public service, now and heretofore under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Treasury, and all that pertains to the same, known as the Light-House Board, the Light-House Establishment, the Steamboat-Inspection Service, the Bureau of Navigation, the United States Shipping Commissioners, the National Bureau of Standards, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Commissioner-General of Immigration, the commissioners of immigration, the Bureau of Immigration, the immigration service at large, and the Bureau of Statistics, be, and the same hereby are, transferred from the Department of the Treasury to the Department of Commerce and Labor, and the same shall hereafter remain under the jurisdiction and supervision of the last-named Department; and that the Census Office, and all that pertains to the same, be, and the same hereby is, transferred from the Department of the Interior to the Department of Commerce and Labor, to remain henceforth under the jurisdiction of the latter; that the Department of Labor, the Fish Commission, and the Office of Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries, and all that pertains to the same, be, and the same hereby are, placed under the jurisdiction and made a part of the Department of Commerce and Labor; that the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, now in the Department of State, be, and the same hereby is, transferred to the Department of Commerce and Labor and consolidated with and made a part of the Bureau of Statistics, hereinbefore transferred from the Department of the Treasury to the Department of Commerce and Labor, and the two shall constitute one bureau, to be called the Bureau of Statistics, with a chief of the bureau; and that the Secretary of Commerce and Labor shall have control of the work of gathering and distributing statistical information naturally relating to the subjects confided to his Department; and the Secretary of Commerce and Labor is hereby given the power and authority to rearrange the statistical work of the bureaus and offices confided to said Department, and to consolidate any of the statistical bureaus and offices transferred to said Department; and said Secretary shall also have authority to call upon other Departments of the Government for statistical data and results obtained by them; and said Secretary of Commerce and Labor may collate, arrange, and publish such statistical information so obtained in such manner as to him may seem wise. * * *

SEC. 5. That there shall be in the Department of Commerce and Labor a bureau to be called the Bureau of Manufactures, and a chief of said bureau. * * *

SEC. 6. That there shall be in the Department of Commerce and Labor a bureau to be called the Bureau of Corporations, and a Commissioner of Corporations who shall be the head of said bureau. * * *

SEC. 7. That the jurisdiction, supervision and control now possessed and exercised by the Department of the Treasury over the fur-seal, salmon and other fisheries of Alaska and over the immigration of aliens into the United States, its waters, territories and any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are hereby transferred and vested in the Department of Commerce and Labor. * * *

SEC. 13. That this Act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage: Provided, however, That the provisions of this Act other than those of section twelve in relation to the transfer of any existing office, bureau, division, officer or other branch of the public service or authority now conferred thereon, to the Department of Commerce and Labor shall take effect and be in force on the first day of July, nineteen hundred and three, and not before.

C2. ALASKAN FISHERIES DIVISION

[That part of the Special Agents Division of the Treasury Department having in charge the fisheries of Alaska was transferred to the Department of Commerce and Labor July 1, 1903, and organized as the Division of Alaskan Fisheries. See, for earlier publications, T35.

On Dec. 5, 1905, by order of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, the agents at salmon fisheries of Alaska originally under the immediate direction of the Secretary, were placed under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Fisheries (C6.).

The name "Division of Alaskan Fisheries" was used as late as Dec. 1, 1907, by the Commerce and Labor Department in "Reports relating to Alaskan seal fisheries" (C2.2:A11).

Up to Dec. 28, 1908, there were four agents of the Department who had supervision of the Fur-Seal Islands, otherwise known as the islands of St. Paul and St. George in the Pribilof Group, Alaska. These agents reported directly to the Secretary of Commerce and Labor but were not officially designated as a division of the Secretary's office.

The Alaskan Fisheries Division was abolished Dec. 28, 1908, when an order of the Department of Commerce and Labor was issued transferring the work of these four agents to the Fisheries Bureau (C6.). Under the Fisheries Bureau there was created a fur-seal board which consisted of an administrative board of five members and an advisory board of distinguished naturalists. The administrative board so constituted is under the direction of the commissioner of fisheries, the advisory board being called upon by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor from time to time to give information to the Department. See, for Organization and law of Department of Commerce and Labor, C1.2:Or3.]

† In conformity with the act approved June 17, 1910 (Stat. L. v. 36, pt. 1, p. 537–539), the duties performed and all power and authority possessed or exercised heretofore by the Light-House Board have been conferred upon and vested in the Commissioner of Lighthouses, under the direction and control of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, and in lieu of the Office of the Light-House Board there has been established a Bureau of Lighthouses under the Department of Commerce and Labor. This reorganization act became effective July 1, 1910. As this Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909, it uses the form "Light-House Board."

Pursuant to the provisions of the above-mentioned act of reorganization, the Department of Commerce and Labor has effected the following rearrangement of lighthouse districts:

† In 1910, the Bureau of Lighthouses substituted for the Lights on western rivers three separate series of publications, one for each of the districts concerned; for these new publications additional classes (C9.27:–C9.29:) have been assigned, see footnote on p. 346. The publications bear the new lighthouse district numbers, except for the 14th district, the number of which remains unchanged.

‡ In the rearrangement of lighthouse districts, as fully described in the footnote on p. 339, the 3d subdistrict has become the 9th district. The 1911 issue of this series bears the new title, Buoys and other aids to navigation, Porto Rico and adjacent islands, 9th district. As there has been no change in boundaries of the district, the Public Documents Library continues to class the series under C9.24:

†This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. Since that time, pursuant to the act approved June 17, 1910, effective July 1, 1910, the Department of Commerce and Labor has effected a rearrangement of lighthouse districts, as fully described in the footnote on p. 339. The new Bureau of Lighthouses provided for in the above-mentioned act has begun several new series of publications, which has necessitated additional classes under C9., the series titles of which are as follows:

C9.27: (date) Lights, buoys, and daymarks, 13th district narrow 16°

[Information herein contained formerly appeared as that part of the Lights on western rivers (C9.21:) which related to the 15th district. The new 13th district was formerly the 15th.]

C9.28: (date) Lights, buoys, and daymarks, 14th district narrow 16°

[Information herein contained formerly appeared as that part of the Lights on western rivers (C9.21:) which related to the 14th district. There has been no change in the number of the 14th district.]

C9.29: (date) Aids to navigation, 15th district narrow 16°

[Information herein contained formerly appeared as that part of the Lights on western rivers (C9.21:) which related to the 16th district. The new 15th district was formerly the 16th.]

C9.30: (date) Lights and fog signals of United States and Canada on northern lakes and rivers [3d and 10th–12th districts] and unlighted aids to navigation of the United States on those waters 4°

[This is a geographic rearrangement of the former Lights and fog signals, northern lakes and rivers and Canada (C9.18:) combined with the former Lights, buoys, and daymarks, northern lakes and rivers (C9.13:). There have been no changes in the numbers of the 3d, 10th, and 11th districts, but the new 12th district was formerly the 9th.]

† This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. The publication of the Daily consular and trade reports was continued up to and including no. 3722, Feb. 28, 1910. After this a weekly publication was substituted for a time; see footnote for C10.14: Beginning with the number for July 5, 1910, the daily issues were resumed, the first 50 numbers being designated, e. g., New series, v. 1, no. 1, serial no. 1. The 51st number, for Sept. 1, 1910, drops the above designation, substituting therefor the words "13th year, no. 51." Beginning with Jan. 3, 1911, the publication reads "14th year, no. 1." These changes have necessitated new classes for the publications issued since July 5, 1910, as follows:

C10.5[2]: (date and nos.) Daily consular and trade reports [series July 5, 1910–]

[The superior numbers following dates in book numbers are the "serial nos." or the "nos." which appear on the publications. The call numbers are therefore as follows: For issues from July 5–Aug. 31, 1910, C10.5 [2]:910[1–50]; from Sept. 1–Dec. 31, 1910, C10.5[2]:910[51–152]; and beginning with Jan. 3, 1911, C10.5[2]:911[1–] .]

C10.6: Monthly consular and trade reports

(nos.)

[Transferred from Statistics Bureau, Commerce and Labor Dept. (C14.8:), July, 1905. The title was changed from Monthly consular reports to its present form July, 1905.]

See, for earlier numbers, S4.7: and C14.8:

298, July, 1905 [4840–334]	305, Feb. 1906 [4996–514]
299, Aug. 1905 [4840–335]	306, Mar. 1906 [4996–515]

304, Jan. 1906 [4996–513]	311, Aug. 1906 [4998–520]

† This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. The publication of the Daily consular and trade reports was continued up to and including no. 3722, Feb. 28, 1910. After this a weekly publication was substituted for a time; see footnote for C10.14: Beginning with the number for July 5, 1910, the daily issues were resumed, the first 50 numbers being designated, e. g., New series, v. 1, no. 1, serial no. 1. The 51st number, for Sept. 1, 1910, drops the above designation, substituting therefor the words "13th year, no. 51." Beginning with Jan. 3, 1911, the publication reads "14th year, no. 1." These changes have necessitated new classes for the publications issued since July 5, 1910, as follows:

C10.5[2]: (date and nos.) Daily consular and trade reports [series July 5, 1910–]

[The superior numbers following dates in book numbers are the "serial nos." or the "nos." which appear on the publications. The call numbers are therefore as follows: For issues from July 5–Aug. 31, 1910, C10.5[2]:910[1–50]; from Sept. 1–Dec. 31, 1910, C10.5[2]: 910[51–152]; and beginning with Jan. 3, 1911, C10.5[2]:911[1– .]

C10.5[2a]: (CT) Daily consular and trade reports [series July 5, 1910–] (separates)

† This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. The publication of the Monthly consular and trade reports was discontinued with no. 357, June, 1910, which was issued in 2 pts., one not bearing the part number, the other being designated as pt. 2.

‡ This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. In 1911, the Bureau of Manufactures dropped the volume number from the series of Special consular reports, v. 43 being the last to carry a volume number. Beginning with 44, the publications carry only the number of the series. Hence book numbers for the class are "(v. nos.)" for v. 1–43, and later "(nos.)."

[The Commerce and Labor Department issued for a time certain publications bearing the title Report on trade conditions, which were formerly classed under C1.7: These reports were written by special agents of the Commerce and Labor Department and none bore the name of any subordinate bureau. Later the Manufactures Bureau issued similar reports, which were formerly classed under C10.11: In Apr. 1910, the Manufactures Bureau claimed as its own publications the whole Special agents series, which is listed here, and assigned to it the series title, giving to the reports already published the numbers 1-33. Beginning with 34, the numbers appear on the publications. These later numbers are not included in this Checklist because issued after Dec. 31, 1909.]

[Transferred from Foreign Commerce Bureau, State Dept. (S4.7:), July, 1903. Nos. 272 and 273, for May and June, 1903, were issued by Foreign Commerce Bureau, but are included in v. 72, the last two numbers of which, those for July and August, nos. 274 and 275, were issued by this Bureau. Voluming ceased with v. 75, ending June, 1904. Beginning with no. 286, July, 1904, each monthly number is separately paged and indexed. With no. 278, v. 73, Nov. 1903, the title was changed from Consular reports to Monthly consular reports. Transferred to Manufactures Bureau (C10.6:), July 1, 1905.]

† This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. The Statistics Bureau has since begun the publication of a new series the first issue of which was for quarter ending Sept. 30, 1910. This has necessitated an additional class under C14., the series title of which is as follows:

C14.18: (date of fiscal year) Imported merchandise entered for consumption in United States and duties collected thereon during quarter ending —— 4°

[The record of imports of merchandise entered for consumption formerly appeared only in the annual volume, Foreign commerce and navigation (C14.1:). The purpose of the publications classed under C14.18:, which are issued as promptly as possible after receipt of quarterly returns from customs collectors, is to present in quarterly and annual form a statement of imported merchandise entered for consumption in United States, showing in the 1st issue of each fiscal year the returns of the 1st quarter (July 1–Sept. 30); in the 2d issue, the returns for the 2d quarter (Oct. 1–Dec. 31) in conjunction with those of the 1st; in the 3d issue, the returns for the 3d quarter (Jan. 1–Mar. 31) in conjunction with those of the 1st and 2d; and in the final issue for the year, the returns for the 4th quarter (Apr. 1–June 30) in conjunction with those that precede it.

The tables will continue to be published in the annual volume, Foreign commerce and navigation (C14.1:), but will not be made a part of the Monthly summary of commerce and finance (C14.14:), because to include them in that would delay the statement of monthly imports and exports.

The date of the fiscal year is used as book number for these publications, the superior number being that of the quarter covered; e. g., C14.18:911[1] is the classification of the issue for Sept. 30, 1910, covering the 1st quarter of the fiscal year 1911.]

CS. CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

[Reports were made on civil service reform by the Retrenchment Committee, Senate (Y4.R31[1]:) in the 28th Congress, and by the Retrenchment Joint Select Committee (Y4.R31[2]:) in the 39th and 40th Congresses. The 41st Congress passed an act authorizing an Advisory Board to conduct inquiries and to establish regulations for the civil service. This act was approved Mar. 3, 1871, and under it reports were made in 1871, 1873, and 1874. On Aug. 5, 1873, the name Advisory Board was changed to Civil Service Commission. In 1874 the appropriation for its continuance was withheld. The present Civil Service Commission was organized by act approved Jan. 16, 1883.]

1878–date, permanent commission, established by act of June 11, 1878.
The relations between the United States Government and the District of Columbia are of such a unique nature that in considering the publications of the District of Columbia government and its various branches it is difficult to decide which are and which are not United States Government publications. In compiling the following list, publications of the corporation of the City of Washington during the period 1802–71 have been omitted. Publications issued by bodies which existed as a part of the Territorial form of government, Feb. 21, 1871–June 20, 1874, are classed under DC1.2: The files of District of Columbia publications in the Public Documents Library are in many cases very incomplete.] †

Public Works, Board of (note).

[The Board of Public Works of District of Columbia was established under act of Feb. 21, 1871, which provided for the 1st municipal government of the District. The board made 3 reports, the first of which, covering the period from its organization until Mar. 6, 1872, had 3 pages and appeared only as 42d Congress, 2d session, Senate executive document 69, serial no. 1479. The 2d (1872) and 3d (1873) reports appeared both in bureau and Congressional editions and are entered below. It is probable that the board made no other reports as it was abolished by act of June 20, 1874, which established the 2d municipal government of the District of Columbia.]

[The publications of the former circuit and district courts of the District of Columbia are classed here, as under act approved Mar. 3, 1901 (Stat. L. v. 31, sec. 62, p. 1199) the justices of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia are to possess the same powers and exercise the jurisdiction possessed and exercised by the judges of the circuit and district courts of the United States. The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia is divided into a circuit court, an equity court, a district court, a criminal court, and a probate court (Tindall's Origin and government of District of Columbia, DC1.2:D63[1], p. 206). Section 64 of act approved Mar. 3, 1901 (Stat. L. v. 31, p. 1200) reads as follows: "The special terms of said court [Supreme Court of the District of Columbia] shall be known, respectively, as the circuit court, the equity court, the criminal court, the probate court, and the district court of the United States."]

† The act making appropriations for the District of Columbia for fiscal year 1912, approved Mar. 2, 1911 (61st Congress, 3d session, Public 441, p. 42, 43), provides "That the jail of the District of Columbia and the Washington Asylum of said District, on and after July 1, 1911, shall be combined as one institution known as the Washington Asylum and Jail." This act also provides that certain authority, duties, etc., relating to the jail and the Washington Asylum which were formerly vested in the Attorney-General of the United States and in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia shall be transferred to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

Prior to the passage of this act, the annual reports of the warden of the jail were made to the Attorney-General, but as the Public Documents Library has no separate issues of such reports, nor of other publications of the jail, that institution has hitherto had no classification in this Checklist.

FC1.7: Special bulletin

A11 Alaska. Monograph of seal-islands of Alaska; by Henry W. Elliott 1882. 4°

[This publication is the only Special bulletin issued by Fish Commission, the number 176 appearing erroneously on its title-page.

The title-page gives the following information: Reprinted, with additions, from report on fishery industries of 10th census. It was, in fact, prepared as sec. 9, monograph A, of such a publication, and was separately issued by Census Office in 1881 (I 11.2:A1 1) and republished with changes on p. 102–109 as this Special bulletin of Fish Commission (FC1.7:A1 1), both publications having half-title-pages bearing the words "Sec. 9, monograph A." The complete publication of the 10th census of which this was to have been sec. 9 was never issued. In 1884 Elliott's Monograph was incorporated as part of v. 8 of 10th census Final volumes (I 11.5:8), and appeared also as a separate therefrom classed under I 11.5a:

The material contained in Elliott's Monograph was also used, with changes, in the publication entitled Fisheries and fishery industries (FC1.6:).]

FS. FREEDMAN'S SAVINGS AND TRUST COMPANY

[The Freedman's Savings and Trust Company was a banking institution chartered under act of Mar. 3, 1865, for the benefit of freed slaves. As such it existed until the charter was amended June 20, 1874, when the trustees were authorized to select, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, three commissioners to take charge of the effects of the company and to report to the Secretary of the Treasury on the financial state thereof. These commissioners were empowered to close the bank and conduct its liquidation. By act of Feb. 21, 1881, the Comptroller of the Currency was made sole commissioner to continue the liquidation.]

GP. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE

[The office of Superintendent of Public Printing was established by an act of Aug. 26, 1852. The duties of the Superintendent were those of an auditor. Under act of June 23, 1860, the Government Printing Office was established, and on Mar. 23, 1861, John Defrees, the first Superintendent of Public Printing under the new law, assumed charge of the establishment. The title of the chief, by act of Feb. 22, 1867, was changed to Congressional Printer, and again, by act of June 20, 1874, to Public Printer.]

GP3.8[2]: (date) Index to Monthly catalogue, United States public documents (quarterly)

[Previous indexes included in Monthly catalogue and not issued separately.
From July, 1909, to June, 1910,† the Index to the Monthly catalogue was issued separately each quarter and cumulated for half-yearly periods. That is, the September number of the Index indexed the Monthly catalogue for July, August, and September; the December number indexed the Monthly catalogue for July to December;† the March number indexed the Monthly catalogue for January to March; and the June number indexed the fiscal year July to June.
Class here only the first 3 issues for each fiscal year; the 4th issue is to be classed under GP3.8[1]: following the 12 numbers of the Monthly catalogue which it indexes and with which it will be bound.
Only two of the quarterly indexes were issued in the calendar year 1909 covered by this Checklist.]

GS. GENERAL SUPPLY COMMITTEE

[Created by Executive order 1071, May 13, 1909, in order to more effectively carry out the spirit of the act approved Jan. 27, 1894 (Stat. L. v. 28, p. 33). It was composed of one representative from each of the 9 Executive Departments and the Government Printing Office, Interstate Commerce Commission, Smithsonian Institution, Superintendent of State, War, and Navy Building, and the government of the District of Columbia. By Executive order 1088, June 16, 1909, the government of the District of Columbia was excluded. The General Supply Committee as thus organized was in active operation up to the close of the fiscal year 1910.

By sec. 4 of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act of June 17, 1910 (Stat. L. v. 36, pt. 1, p. 531) the General Supply Committee was made a statutory body under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury. The effect of this section was to abolish the General Supply Committee as organized under the Executive order. See, for information concerning the new committee, footnote for T45.]

I. INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

[Created by act of Congress approved Mar. 3, 1849, which went into effect from and after its passage.

By this act, Patent Office and Census Office were transferred to the new Department from State Department; General Land Office was transferred to it from Treasury Department; Indian Affairs Office, from War Department; and Pension Office, from War and Navy Departments. For other changes connected with this Department, see names of bureaus and offices.

See, for History and business methods of Department of Interior, its bureaus and offices, I 1.2:H62, and for General information regarding Department of Interior, I 1.2:In3.]

I 1.51: Commissioner of Public Buildings, Annual reports

[By act approved July 16, 1790, 3 commissioners were authorized to be appointed by the President to survey a district or territory for the permanent seat of Government, to purchase or accept land on the eastern side of the Potomac River, and to provide suitable buildings for Congress, the President, and public offices of the Government. Act of May 1, 1802, abolished the office of commissioners, and conferred their powers upon a superintendent.
By act of Apr. 29, 1816, the President was authorized to appoint one commissioner to take up the duties of this office. Senate resolution of Jan. 28, 1818, required an annual statement on expenditures and progress of work to be made by this commissioner and, through the President, laid before Congress. Act of Mar. 3, 1829, required these reports to be made directly to Congress at the beginning of each session. Act of July 1, 1840, required them to be made at the beginning of each calendar year.
The reports from 1817 to 1841 usually contain the report of the Architect of the Capitol, who was styled in 1817 the Surveyor of the Capitol, and at another time, Architect of Public Buildings. This official was an appointee of the Commissioner of Public Buildings. Act of Mar. 3, 1843, discontinued the office of Architect, which was revived as a distinct office June 11, 1851 (see I 1.7:).

[Special enumeration of names and services of survivors and widows of survivors of Civil War was provided for by census act of Mar. 1, 1889, and was made, the resulting directory of about 1,300,000 being sufficient to fill 8 quarto volumes of 1000 p. each. Congress did not provide for its publication, but in 1894 directed that it be turned over to Pension Office. Certain statistics as to Union and Confederate veterans and their widows may be found in Population, pt. 2 (I 12.5:16), p. clxxii-clxxv and 803-824.]

I 15. PUBLIC DOCUMENTS DIVISION

[The act of Feb. 5, 1859, providing for keeping and distributing public documents by the Secretary of Interior, repealed the joint resolution of Mar. 20, 1858, supplementary to the joint resolution of Jan. 28, 1857, and amended sec. 3 of the said resolution of Jan. 28, 1857. Among the provisions of the act of Feb. 5, 1859, was one which required "that a register of * * * documents shall be kept under authority of the Secretary of Interior, showing quantity and kind of each at any time received by him in pursuance of this act; and it shall be his duty to be caused to be entered in such register, at the proper time, when, where, and to whom the same * * * have been distributed and delivered, and to report the same to Congress at the 1st session of each Congress." Under this act at least one itemized register was printed and is found in the annual report of the Interior Department for 1859, but with this exception and with the exception of a few scattering comments on the distribution of public documents in the annual reports of the Secretary of Interior, between 1859 and 1878 no registers similar to that of 1859 appear to have been printed, in spite of sec. 3 of the act of Feb. 5, 1859, and sec. 445 of Revised statutes. No reports appear to have been printed other than the reports as listed below.

The egislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act, 1869, approved Mar. 3, 1869, directed that "the Secretary of Interior shall appoint a superintendent of public documents." The office of superintendent of documents of Interior Department was abolished by the printing law of Jan. 12, 1895, which provided for the appointment of the superintendent of documents under the Government Printing Office. Since the law of Jan. 12, 1895, became operative, the Interior Department distributed only its own documents and the former title of superintendent of documents was changed to clerk in charge of documents, whose office was finally abolished July 1, 1907, by action of the Secretary of Interior.

See, for Acts and resolutions governing printing and distribution of public documents, page 35 of Report regarding publication and distribution of public documents, by J. G. Ames, A. R. Spofford, and Spencer F. Baird, 1882 (I 15.2:D65[1]).]

[This survey, under the direction of Dr. F. V. Hayden, originated in an appropriation in 1867 for the geological survey of Nebraska, under the direction of the commissioner of the General Land Office. In 1869, it was placed under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior. Appropriations were continued annually until 1879. It was known as the Geological Survey of the Territories from 1867 to 1872, after which Geographical was included in the name, as above. Mineral resources of United States (calendar years)

[In accordance with act approved Mar. 2, 1895 (Stat. L. v. 28, p. 960), Mineral resources of United States was issued from 1894 to 1899 as a part of the report of the director of the Geological Survey (I 19.1: and I 1.1:). The act approved Mar. 3, 1901 (Stat. L. v. 31, p. 1161), provided that the report on Mineral resources should be published in one octavo volume and as a distinct publication, and a later act, that of May 27, 1908 (Stat. L. v. 35, pt. 1, p. 349), changed the form from one volume to two. The acts of Mar. 3, 1901, and May 27, 1908, became effective with the reports on Mineral resources for the calendar years 1900 and 1907, respectively.]

I 20. INDIAN AFFAIRS OFFICE

[The earliest ordinances for regulating intercourse with the Indians antedate the establishment of the Federal Government. The act establishing the Department of War, Aug. 7, 1789, assigned the supervision of Indian affairs to that Department, and from the beginning there were, in the parts of the country occupied by Indians, officials who exercised, sometimes in connection with another office, the duties of a "superintendent of Indian affairs." Acts with various provisions for regulating trade with the Indians were passed on Mar. 3, 1793, Apr. 18, 1796, Mar. 30, 1802, and subsequent dates.

The office in Washington seems to have had its beginning in the appointment, under act of Apr. 21, 1806 (Stat. L. v. 2, p. 402), of a "superintendent of Indian trade, whose duty it shall be to purchase and take charge of all goods intended for trade with the Indians." This office was abolished by act of May 6, 1822.

The Office of Indian Affairs was established Mar. 1824, and placed on its present footing by act approved July 9, 1832 (Stat. L. v. 4, p. 564), which made provision for the appointment of a "commissioner of Indian affairs, who shall, under the direction of the Secretary of War * * * have the direction and management of all Indian affairs, and of all matters arising out of Indian relations." On the organization of the Department of the Interior by act of Mar. 3, 1849 (Stat. L. v. 9, p. 395), this Office was made one of the bureaus of said Department, with which it has since been connected.

The Indian appropriation acts from 1832 to date have made appropriations for the expenses of the "Indian Department." The title Department has been held to include the Indian Service, both in Washington and in the field, and in the act of June 18, 1834 (Stat. L. v. 4, p. 677), appropriations were made for the salaries of the commissioner and "clerks in the office of the commissioner" and for the expenses of the field service. Afterward, the appropriations for the Service in Washington were, as a rule, included in acts "making appropriations for legislative, executive, and judicial expenses," and those for the Service in the field were contained in acts "making appropriations for Indian Department."

There is no law establishing the name of the Washington office, but there is some authority of law for every name by which it has been known, e. g.: Indian Department, Office of Indian Affairs, Office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Indian Office, and Indian Bureau. The present usage in the Office itself, and in recent Congressional directories, Registers of the Department of the Interior, and Official registers of the United States is in favor of "Office of Indian Affairs" as its official name.]

From 1897 to 1906, the differences between the report as bound for the Indian Affairs Office, called the bureau edition, and that prepared for filing with the Interior Department reports, known as the Department edition, are very slight. The title-pages in every case read "Annual reports of Department of Interior for fiscal year ended June 30, ——." The differences, if any, are shown in the subtitle and the paging as indicated below:

Bureau edition (I 20.1:)—	Department edition (I 1.1:)—

I 20.15: (date) Reports of agents and superintendents in charge of Indians

[From a very early period up to and including 1906, reports of agents and superintendents were printed as part of the appendix to the annual report of the commissioner of Indian affairs, as it appeared in annual reports of War Department (W 1.1:), and later in annual reports of Interior Department (I 1.1:), and as issued separately also.

Beginning with 1907, these reports are not included in the commissioner's report and are not printed in any form at the Government Printing Office. From 1907 to 1909, a small number of copies were printed (not published) for the use of the Indian service, in the form of a compilation. The reports are grouped by States and different sections are printed at the various school printeries. Some of the pamphlets contain only one State and some contain several, but always arranged in such a way that the whole can be combined to form a complete set.

The general titles for the reports from 1907 to 1909 vary. The general title of the 1908 set has been chosen as the series title for this class, because it is more explicit than either of the others. The sets for all three years carry as the running head "Reports concerning Indians in ——."

These reports are addressed to the commissioner of Indian affairs and have nothing to do with the reports of the Indian Schools Superintendent.

As the files of the Public Documents Library are incomplete, they are not listed here.]

I 21. LAND OFFICE, GENERAL

[By act establishing the Department of War, Aug. 7, 1789, the Secretary of War was charged with supervision over "the granting of lands to persons entitled thereto for military services rendered to the United States." The act establishing the Department of the Treasury, Sept. 2, 1789, required the Secretary of the Treasury to execute "services relative to the sale of the lands belonging to the United States." An act of May 18, 1796, provided for surveying these lands, and authorized the President to grant patents for lands, to be countersigned by the Secretary of State and recorded in his office. Land offices were established and proper registry provided for by acts of May 10, 1800, and Mar. 26, 1804.

Act of Apr. 25, 1812, provided "that there shall be established in the Department of the Treasury an office, to be denominated the General Land Office, the chief officer of which shall be called the commissioner of the General Land Office, whose duty it shall be * * * to superintend, execute, and perform all such acts and things touching or respecting the public lands of the United States * * * as have heretofore been directed by law to be done or performed in the office of the Secretary of State, of the Secretary and Register of the Treasury, and of the Secretary of War."

An act of July 4, 1836 "to reorganize the General Land Office" provided that the executive duties concerning public lands and private claims for land prescribed therein "be subject to the supervision and control of the commissioner of the General Land Office, under the direction of the President of the United States." The question immediately arose as to whether the effect of this law was to remove the control of the Land Office from the Treasury Department. The opinion of the Attorney-General on the subject, rendered July 4, 1836 (J 1.5:3, p. 137) was to the effect that the supervision remained with the Treasury Department, and in order to remove all doubt, the President, at the suggestion of the Attorney-General, directed that the Secretary of the Treasury continue to superintend the business of the Land Office.

In 1849, the act establishing the Department of the Interior transferred the General Land Office from the Treasury Department to the Interior Department.]

I 21.5: [Land] decisions

(v. nos.) [The decisions relating to public lands are prepared in the office of the Assistant Attorney-General for the Interior Department, under the supervision of that officer, and submitted to the Secretary of the Interior for his adoption. Also issued in separate signatures.
Volumes 1-3 contained the decisions of the Secretary of the Interior and of the commissioner of the General Land Office; but beginning with v. 4 the General Land Office decisions were omitted. Notwithstanding this fact the title-pages, up to and including v. 37,‡ read incorrectly Decisions of Department of Interior and General Land Office in cases relating to public lands.
Although issued in the name of the Secretary of the Interior, these decisions are classed under I 21., because of their intimate connection with the General Land Office.]

†In Apr. 1911, the General Land Office began a new series of numbered Circulars, some of which are multigraphed, some printed.

‡The title-page of v. 38, which appeared in 1910 and for that reason is omitted from this Checklist, omits the words "and General Land Office." With the exception of the wording of the title-pages, there is no change in the form of the publication and the classification assigned to v. 38 in the Public Documents Library is I 21.5:38.

I 23. PATENT OFFICE

Cf 608.73 U58 P3 patent laws

[By act of Apr. 10, 1790, authority to grant letters patent was vested jointly in the Secretary of State, the Secretary of War, and the Attorney-General, subject to approval by the President of the United States, and provision was made that such letters patent should be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State. By act of Feb. 1, 1793, the connection of the Secretary of War with patent affairs ceased, and the jurisdiction was brought more closely under the Secretary of State.

Patent Office established and attached to Department of State by act of July 4, 1836. Transferred to Interior Department by act organizing that Department, Mar. 3, 1849.]

I 23.1[1]: Annual reports to Congress (calendar years) 8° and large 8°

[The act of July 4, 1836, provided for a report to Congress in January of each year, containing a statement of expenditures, together with the list of patents and alphabetical list of patentees for that year; see, for information as to earlier lists, I 23.7:

In addition to these statements and lists, the report was to include such other information as to the state and condition of the Patent Office as might be useful to Congress or to the public. Under this provision, the commissioner, as early as 1837, included in his report a statement on agriculture, which continued to be a part of the report, forming a separate volume after 1849, until 1862, when the Department of Agriculture was established.

Beginning with 1843, the claims of patents, with brief descriptions, were printed as a part of the annual report, but from 1843 to 1848, only a small part of the edition contained these claims and the lists of patents and patentees. From 1849, the entire edition contained the descriptions and claims of patents, as well as the lists of patents and patentees, until the adoption of a joint resolution of Jan. 11, 1871, which ordered that the publication of this matter as a part of the annual report be discontinued, and provided for the publication separately of the complete specifications and drawings of each patent; see I 23.14:

With Jan. 1872, the publication of the Official gazette (I 23.8:) was begun, and much additional matter which had theretofore appeared in the annual reports, was transferred to the Official gazette, leaving the annual lists of patents and patentees the chief feature of the annual report, as in the earlier years.

From 1872 to 1875, the annual list was not even accompanied by a report on the condition of the office, but appeared with the title, General index of Official gazette and monthly volumes of patents. The commissioner's report on the condition of the office for each of these four years appeared only in the Official gazette, where the similar reports have appeared for each year from 1871 to 1909 (except 1878), being printed usually in one of the January or February numbers. From 1876 to 1909, the report of the commissioner on the condition of the office has also preceded the annual lists of patentees and patents, but with the exception of these few pages, the annual report to Congress is in fact a yearly index to the Official gazette (I 23.8:) and to the monthly volumes of Specifications and drawings of patents (I 23.14:).

1837–69, no edition without Congressional document number.

I 23.7: General indexes and lists of patents

[By a House resolution of Jan. 13, 1812, the Secretary of State was directed to lay before the House an annual list of the persons to whom patents had been granted, with the dates and general subjects of such patents. Photolithographic reproductions of the annual lists for the years 1811–16, with lists printed in 1805 and 1811, may be found in the compilation of 1872 (I 23.7:872), which covers the period from 1790 to 1836.

The lists for 1817–36 are in this compilation and also in the Congressional set as follows

1817	[7–48]	1822	[78–36]	1827	[170–34]	1832	[235–130]
1818	[20–78]	1823	[94–25]	1828	[185–59]	1833	[255–59]
1819	[33–35]	1824	[114–28]	1829	[195–16]	1834	[272–55]
1820	[51–46]	1825	[133–22]	1830	[207–49]	1835	[288–64]
1821	[64–18]	1826	[149–27]	1831	[217–39]	1836	[304–174]

A House resolution of Apr. 2, 1830, provided that in the annual lists, the patents should be arranged alphabetically and grouped according to subjects, and that there should be an alphabetical list of the names of the patentees. In the lists 1830–33, the names of patentees were grouped according to the subjects of the patents; beginning with 1835, they are arranged in one alphabetical list.

The act under which the Patent Office was organized, July 4, 1836, provided that the list of patents and alphabetical list of patentees should be a part of the annual report of the commissioner of patents, and beginning with 1837, it has so appeared, constituting what is known as the annual index; see I 23.1[1]:]

See, for earlier compilations [207–50] and S1.2:P27[1–4].

I 23.8: Official gazette large 8°

(v. nos.)

[Issued Tuesday† of each week, beginning Jan. 1872.† Contains lists and descriptions of patents, designs, trade-marks, labels, and prints, with the names and addresses of the persons to whom granted; decisions of the commissioner of patents and of United States courts in matters of patents and trade-marks; also notices of changes in the rules of practice, patent laws, etc.

From 1872 to 1883, the weekly numbers were bound in half-yearly volumes, and beginning in 1881, with v. 19, there was included in each volume an alphabetical list of patentees and inventions, constituting a volume index similar to the indexes in the weekly issues. With July, 1883, v. 24, the volumes and the indexes thereto became quarterly. With Jan. 1903, v. 102, the volumes and indexes became bimonthly. From Jan. 1907, to Dec. 1908, v. 126–137, no volume indexes were issued, but appended to the bimonthly bound volumes for these years are 2 indexes, one for each month included in the volume. Beginning with Jan. 1909, v. 138, the volumes are monthly and the volume index is resumed, the index appearing monthly with title Alphabetical list of patentees to whom patents were issued during month of —— ——. For the weekly issues of Alphabetical list of patentees to whom patents were issued on —— day of —— ——, which are separates of the weekly issues of the Official gazette, see I 23.8*a*:

Beginning with v. 3, Jan.–June, 1873, each volume contains also an index to decisions of commissioner of patents and of United States courts in matter of patents, trade-marks, etc., and a digest of these decisions.]

I 23.8[a]: Official gazette (separates)

(CT)

[Such portions of the weekly issues of the Official gazette as are sometimes issued separately are to be classed here. These include decisions of the commissioner of patents; trade-marks registered during the week; and alphabetical lists of patentees and inventions from the weekly issues.

The bimonthly and monthly lists of patentees and inventions, not being separates from the Official gazette, are not classed here, but are classed under I 23.8:, each with the volume of the Official gazette to which it is an index.]

I 23.8[b]: Official gazette, supplement containing revised classification of subjects of invention

[These publications contain the general scheme of classification in use by the Patent Office, the successive revisions embodying the changes in classification which are announced in the weekly issues of the Official gazette and again in the Classification bulletin (I 23.3:).

The 4 numbered supplements containing current revisions and definitions, which appeared with v. 91, 93, 95, and 97 of the Official gazette, each bearing the volume number on its title-page, and dated respectively June 26, 1900, Dec. 25, 1900, June 25, 1901, and Dec. 31, 1901, are not of this series but are properly classed each as the final number of its respective volume of the Official gazette; see I 23.8:91, I 23.8:93, I 23.8:95, and I 23.8:97.

See, for earlier issues, I 23.2:C56[2] and I 23.8:14, no. 27.]

I 23.9: Orders

(nos.)

[No attempt has been made to list the great number of Orders which have been issued by the Patent Office. A large proportion of them relate entirely to office matters and are of interest only to employees of the Patent Office. Such Orders are not usually printed, but are promulgated verbally or otherwise to the employees. All Orders of public interest are printed regularly in the Official gazette (I 23.8:).]

I 23.10: Decisions of commissioner of patents (calendar years)

(date)

[Compiled from Official gazette. Beginning with 1876, the volumes have included also decisions of United States courts, decisions of Secretary of Interior, opinions of Attorney-General, and important decisions of State courts in relation to patents, trade-marks, etc. 1869–94, not in Congressional set.]

I 23.14: Specifications and drawings of patents large 8°

(date)

[From 1843 to 1870, descriptions and claims of patents were included in the annual reports made by the commissioner of patents to Congress. A resolution of Jan. 11, 1871, ordered that the publication of this matter as a part of the annual report should be discontinued, and provided for publishing the complete specifications and drawings of each patent. These appeared as weekly numbers from May 30, 1871, to June 25, 1872. The weekly numbers for July, 1872, were consolidated in 2 volumes, and beginning with Aug. 1872, the publication has appeared as a monthly. From July, 1885, to Dec. 1902, each monthly volume was issued in 2 parts; since Jan. 1903, each volume has been in 3 parts. The specifications and drawings are also issued singly for each patent at date of granting patent.]

I 24. PENSION BUREAU

[Business relating to pensions was being conducted under the War Department as early as 1792. Other pensions were paid from the navy pension fund, which from 1799 to 1832 was administered by a commission composed of the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Secretary of War. In 1832, the management of this fund passed into the hands of the Secretary of the Navy.

An act of Mar. 2, 1833 (Stat. L. v. 4, p. 622), provided for the appointment of a commissioner of pensions to "execute under the direction of the Secretary of War such duties in relation to the various pension laws as may be prescribed by the President of the United States." This office was continued by succeeding acts.

By act of Mar. 4, 1840 (Stat. L. v. 5, p. 369), the pension business theretofore transacted in the Navy Department was transferred to the office of the commissioner of pensions, and the commissioner was directed to "execute under the direction of the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy such duties in relation to the various pension laws as may be prescribed by the President."

The office of the commissioner of pensions was transferred to the Interior Department by the act organizing that Department, Mar. 3, 1849, and since about 1890 it has been termed Bureau of Pensions.]

†Act approved June 25, 1910 (Stat. L. v. 36, pt. 1, p. 835), contained the following proviso: "That no part of this appropriation [$20,000,000] shall be expended upon any existing project until it shall have been examined and reported upon by a board of engineer officers of the Army designated by the President of the United States, and until it shall be approved by the President as feasible and practicable and worthy of such expenditure; nor shall any portion of this appropriation be expended upon any new project."

By departmental order of July 2, 1910, the position of consulting engineer to Secretary of Interior on construction work in Reclamation Service was created.

The Reclamation Projects Board, authorized by the above-mentioned act of June 25, 1910, was organized July 20, 1910 and later, accompanied by the director of the Reclamation Service and the consulting engineer on construction work, made a trip through the West to inspect the various reclamation projects.

Nov. 28, 1910, the board made its report to the Secretary of the Interior through the consulting engineer. This report was transmitted to Congress by the President Jan. 5, 1911, and appeared as House document 1262, 61st Congress, 3d session. Up to Apr. 14, 1911, no bureau edition of the report has been issued.

I 27.13: Farm unit plats

(CT)

[A farm unit plat is a plat of a township, usually on a scale of 2 inches to the mile, and may be either a preliminary plat showing merely the farm unit subdivisions of public lands, or a final plat showing farm unit subdivisions and areas of public lands, or a final plat showing farm unit subdivisions and the areas of public and private lands to be served with water. Farm unit plats form the official record to which homestead entries and water-right applications must be made to conform.]

I 28. MINES BUREAU †

omit here

† This Checklist ends with publications of the calendar year 1909. Since that time the Bureau of Mines has been organized in the Interior Department, necessitating additional classes, the heading and series titles of which are as follows:

I 28. Mines Bureau

[Established by act of May 16, 1910, effective July 1, 1910 (Stat. L. v. 36, pt. 1, p. 369). This act virtually detached from the Geological Survey its Technologic Branch, and established it as a separate bureau. The act authorized the transfer to the Mines Bureau of the "supervision of the investigations of structural materials and the analyzing and testing of coals, lignites, and other mineral fuel substances and the investigation as to the causes of mine explosions." The "investigation of structural materials both belonging to and for the use of the United States" was, however, transferred instead to the Standards Bureau (C13.), by the sundry civil appropriation act approved June 25, 1910 (Stat. L. v. 36, pt. 1, p. 765). The work of the Mines Bureau was therefore limited to the analyzing and testing of fuels and to mine accidents. Earlier publications of this nature appeared as Geological Survey Bulletins (I 19.3:), Professional papers (I 19.16:), and Explosives circulars (I 19.20:).]

I 28.5[2]: (nos.) [List of] new publications (numbered) oblong 48°

[These numbered lists are in postal card form and will be issued at intervals of a month or 6 weeks.]

I 28.6: (nos.) Miners' circulars

[No. 1, entered in List 3 (I 28.5[2]:3) was withdrawn and afterward, having been brought down to a later date, issued as no. 2, the 1st number being reserved for another publication.]

IC. INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

[Created by act of Congress approved Feb. 4, 1887. This act became effective Apr. 5, 1887. The 1st commission was appointed Mar. 22, and organized Mar. 31, 1887.]

Classification no.

IC1.1: Annual reports

[The organic act, approved Feb. 4, 1887 (Stat. L. v. 24, p. 387), provided that on or before the 1st day of December in each year a report should be made to the Secretary of Interior. This act was amended by act approved Mar. 2, 1889 (Stat. L. v. 25, p. 862) and thereafter reports were made direct to Congress.]

Same, app. G, pt. 1 [Not issued. See note below.]

[It was originally intended that the reports constituting appendix G should come out in 5 pts., having the general title Railways in United States in 1902, and being popularly known as the "Ten-year book." Pts. 2, 4, and 5 were issued as parts of the 16th report (IC1.1:902 [3-5]). Although pts. 1 and 3 were originally intended to be parts of the 16th report, 1902, they were not so issued, and the 17th report (IC1.1:903[2], p. 5) indicates that pts. 1 and 3 were later intended to be parts of the 17th report, 1903, but they have not been issued, and it is probable that they never will be issued.

The entire appendix was to have appeared as 58th Congress, 2d session, House document 253, pts. 2–6, but as pts. 1 and 3 of appendix G may never be issued there will probably be no v. 72 of the House documents of 58th Congress, 2d session, and serial no. 4698 will be a blank.]

IC1.6[1]: Interstate Commerce Commission reports

(v. nos.) [The above is the back title of a series of reported decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the title-pages of which vary as indicated in the list below.

From Apr. 1887 to Sept. 1894, two firms printed the decisions—the L. K. Strouse Company of New York City and the Lawyers' Cooperative Publishing Company of Rochester, N. Y. After each firm had printed 5 v. of decisions, the latter firm bought out the former firm.

The set which is considered by the Interstate Commerce Commission as being official is as follows:

v. 1–5, L. K. Strouse Company, cited as "I. C. C. rep."
v. 6–11, Lawyers' Cooperative Publishing Company, cited as "I. C. C. rep."
v. 12–17, and later volumes, Government Printing Office, cited as "I. C. C. rep."

The first 5 v. of the Lawyers' Cooperative set are unofficial and are not listed in this Checklist. They are invaluable, however, because they contain many unreported decisions of Federal courts, in addition to the decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission. These first 5 v. of the Lawyers' Cooperative set may be used, but care must be taken to cite them as "I. C. rep." instead of "I. C. C. rep."

Issues prior to v. 12 are not strictly speaking Government publications, but beginning with v. 12 the reports become public documents, published and sold by the Government.

Interstate Commerce Commission reports (separates; Report of commission, Report and opinion of commission, etc.)

[Numerous advance prints are issued containing decisions, reports, and opinions of the Interstate Commerce Commission. There are two prints of these, namely: Report of the commission and Report and order of the commission. Both prints are identical in all respects with the same report as it appears in the bound volume, except that the Report and order includes the official order of the commission which is not found in the bound volume. The prints which contain the report only are classed here under IC1.6[1a]: The prints called Report and order of commission are classed in the Public Documents Library under IC1.6[1b]: (unless the only print which the library has is the Report and order of commission, in which case for its own convenience this library has entered under IC1.6[1a]: the combined report and order as a substitute for the true separate). See, for further information in regard to official orders printed without the reports or opinions to which they relate, IC1.9:

In the case of v. 12, the paging of the bound volume will be found to differ from that of the advance prints, certain matter having been eliminated and included in final proof.]

IC1.6[1b]: (CT)

Interstate Commerce Commission reports (Report and order of commission)

[There are two advance prints of the reports of the commission, one issued alone (IC1.6[1a]:), the other including the order of the commission resulting therefrom, with title, Report and order of commission. As explained in the note under IC1.6[1a]: the report is in both cases identical with the same report as it appears later in the bound volume (IC1.6[1]:), but the order does not appear in the bound volume. The prints called Report and order of commission are regarded as confidential and are given a very limited circulation. The Public Documents Library has reserved this class (IC1.6[1b]:) for such Reports and orders of commission. If, however, this library has only the print to which the order is affixed, it has for its own convenience entered the publication under IC1.6[1a]:, as a substitute for the true separate.

IC1.8: National Association of Railway Commissioners

[The first conference of railroad commissioners was held pursuant to an invitation of the Interstate Commerce Commission, at Washington, D. C., on Mar. 5-7, 1889. Succeeding national conventions, held annually from 1890 to 1900, met under call of committees appointed by each preceding convention. Formal organization under the name of National Association of Railway Commissioners was effected June 7, 1901.

The membership includes the Interstate Commerce Commission and the railroad commissions of the several States and Territories. Although strictly speaking the Association is not officially connected with the Interstate Commerce Commission, the two are very closely associated, and as the Proceedings, etc., of the Association are printed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, they are properly classed here.]

IC1.36: Block Signal and Train Control Board

[By a joint resolution approved June 30, 1906, Congress directed the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate and report on block-signal systems and appliances for automatic control of railway trains. The commission's report was submitted Feb. 23, 1907, and was printed as Senate document 342, 59th Congress, 2d session, serial no. 5072. This document may be considered as the preface or explanatory introduction of the commission to the work of the Block Signal and Train Control Board. On Mar. 4, 1907, Congress appropriated $50,000 to enable the commission to carry out the purpose of joint resolution of June 30, 1906, including experimental tests of signal systems and appliances. The appropriation did not become effective until July 1, 1907.

The Block Signal and Train Control Board was appointed by the Interstate Commerce Commission July 10, 1907, and organized on July 12.

The sundry civil appropriation act approved May 27, 1908, authorized the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate appliances intended to promote the safety of railway operations and reappropriated the unexpended balance of the appropriation made by the act of Mar. 4, 1907.]

[It was originally the intention of the Interstate Commerce Commission to have a series of Special orders for each year, but as so few were issued it was decided to number them consecutively throughout a period of years. In the process of changing plans for issuing the series, the Special order of June 7, 1910, was erroneously called "Special order 1, series 1910" and the Special order of July 20, 1910, was erroneously called "Special order 5," which duplicated the number of the issue of Mar. 8, 1909. In the Public Documents Library, book numbers have been assigned as follows: 5[1], to the Mar. 8, 1909, issue; 5[2], to the June 7, 1910, issue; and 5[3], to the July 20, 1910, issue.

Beginning with July 20, 1910, the words "series 1910" are omitted from the publications.]

IC1.48[1]: Unreported opinions [reparation cases]

(nos.) [Nos. 1–28 of this series as originally printed bore reported Opinion nos. 1067, 1069–74, 1076–81, 1083–86, 1088–96, 1098, 1097, respectively. These regular reported Opinion numbers were canceled and Unreported opinion numbers 1–28 substituted therefor by rubber stamp. Beginning with no. 29, the correct numbers were printed on the publications.

A limited number of Unreported opinions 1–113 were bound as a companion volume to v. 17 of Interstate Commerce Commission reports (IC1.6[1]:17) to which they correspond in point of time, although not included therein. The Unreported opinions bear the words "Report and order of commission." They have separate pagination and by this means are distinguishable from the reported opinions contained in v. 17 (IC1.6[1]:17).

Although this Checklist ends with 1909 publications, an exception to the general rule has been made so as to include both unreported opinions 67–113 of 1910 and the index to nos. 1–113, which appeared in Mar. 1910.

The "Opinion" numbers originally assigned to 1–28 of this series, as noted above, were reassigned to later reported opinions, all in v. 17 of Interstate Commerce Commission reports (IC1.6[1]:17).]

J. JUSTICE DEPARTMENT

[In sec. 35 of "An act to establish the judicial courts of the United States," approved Sept. 24, 1789, provision was made for the appointment of an Attorney-General "whose duty it shall be to prosecute and conduct all suits in the Supreme Court in which the United States shall be concerned, and to give his advice and opinion upon questions of law when required by the President of the United States, or when requested by the heads of any of the Departments, touching any matters that may concern their Departments . . ." (Stat. L. v. 1, p. 92).

But it was not until July 1, 1870, by act approved June 22, 1870 (Stat. L. v. 16, p. 162), that the Department of Justice was organized as an Executive Department, with the Attorney-General at its head. To this Department the legal advisers then attached to other departments were transferred, and the jurisdiction which the Secretary of Interior held over the accounts of the district attorneys, marshals, clerks, and other officers of the courts of the United States, was ordered to be exercised by the Attorney-General.]

J1.10: Laws of United States, Commission to Revise

[Act approved June 4, 1897 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 58) provided "that the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint three commissioners, whose duty it shall be, under the direction of the Attorney-General, to revise and codify the criminal and penal laws of the United States." The duties of this commission were extended, by act approved Mar. 3, 1899 (Stat. L. v. 30, p. 1116), to include the revision of laws concerning the jurisdiction and practice of the United States courts. By act approved Mar. 3, 1901 (Stat. L. v. 31, p. 1181), Congress further extended the duties of the commission to include the revision of all laws of a permanent and general nature. Congress, by act approved June 30, 1906 (Stat. L. v. 34, pt. 1, p. 754), directed that the commission should complete its work and make a final report to Congress on or before Dec. 16, 1906.
The commission was at first known as Commission to Revise and Codify Criminal and Penal Laws, later, when its duties were enlarged, as Commission to Revise Laws of United States.
Although by law the commission made annual reports to the Attorney-General, its final report was to be made directly to Congress, therefore the publications of the commission are classed under Y3., Commissions and boards, rather than J., Justice Department. See, for publications of the commission, Y3.L44:]

J8. NATIONAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR BOYS

[Established by act of July 25, 1866, under name of House of Correction. This institution developed from the Guardian Society which had been incorporated in 1862. Name changed to Reform School of District of Columbia by act of May 6, 1870. By sundry civil appropriation act of May 27, 1908, name was changed to National Training School for Boys.
1866–72, under Interior Department; transferred to Justice Department by act of Mar. 5, 1872. By operation of this act and the act of May 3, 1876, requiring the report of the president of the board of trustees to be made for each fiscal year to the Attorney-General and to be accompanied by the reports of the superintendent and treasurer, reports have been made annually to the Justice Department.
In accordance with the District of Columbia appropriation act approved Mar. 3 1881, annual reports have also been made to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, in whom certain powers over the school were vested. The regular reports to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia under this act began in 1883.

J9. REFORM SCHOOL FOR GIRLS OF DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

[The board of trustees of the Reform School for Girls of District of Columbia (or the Girls' Reform School of District of Columbia, by which name the institution seems also to have been called) was created by act approved July 9, 1888. At the time this act of incorporation was passed, no appropriation was made for the establishment of the school. On Feb. 11, 1891, a bill passed the Senate making appropriation for its establishment, but the bill was not passed by the House; and the bill making appropriation for the District of Columbia, 1893, approved July 14, 1892, carried the first appropriation for the school. The institution was formally opened in Nov. 1893.

Since 1894, two reports are made each year, one to the Attorney-General and the other to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

The authority for making a report to the Commissioners seems to have been a general provision in the District appropriation bill approved July 18, 1888, that "hereafter the several institutions included under the heads of asylums, reformatories, industrial schools, and charities, named in the annual appropriation acts for the support of the District of Columbia, shall report to the Commissioners of the District, on or before the 1st day of December of each year * * * ."

The authority for making a report to the Attorney-General is found in the law establishing the school, which states that all sections of the act of May 3, 1876, revising the acts establishing the Reform School of District of Columbia (J8.), are made applicable to the Reform School for Girls of District of Columbia. That act directs that the president of the board of trustees make a report to the Attorney-General each fiscal year, to be accompanied by reports of the superintendent and treasurer. From the beginning, the report of the trustees has been accompanied by the report of the superintendent, but at first there was no treasurer, and appropriations were disbursed through the Commissioners of the District. The report for 1895 recommended the appointment of a treasurer. His appointment was made Oct. 28, 1896, and approved by the Commissioners Dec. 18, 1896, the first report made by him being for the fiscal year 1896.

The 1895 report of the trustees also recommended that appropriations be made in the District appropriation bills, not under the heading "Charities," but under the heading "Reformatories," the recommendation being made on the ground that the Reform School for Girls was on practically the same footing as the Reform School for Boys, over which the Department of Justice had control. This recommendation was repeated in several successive reports to the Attorney-General. The only material difference (except for age limitation) between the two institutions seems to have been "that while the board of trustees of the Boys' Reform School appoint the officials of the school * * * subject to the approval of the Attorney-General, in the case of the Girls' School the supervisory power is lodged in the Commissioners of the District of Columbia and not in the Attorney-General"; see report for 1899 (J9.1:899, p. 5). The result of the recommendation of the trustees was that in the act making appropriations for the District, 1901, approved June 6, 1900, the institution was appropriated for under the heading "Reformatories" instead of "Charities."

Under the act of incorporation, the trustees are appointed by the President of the United States upon the recommendation of the Attorney-General, and the officers of the school are appointed by the trustees, subject to the approval of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. For several successive years prior to 1900, the trustees recommended a transfer of authority for the appointment of officers, from the Commissioners to the Attorney-General, but so far as known by the Office of the Superintendent of Documents, no change has been made in the method of appointment of school officers.

The report for 1904 includes a report of A. C. Caine, one of the trustees, to the Attorney-General, recommending that legislation be passed so as to remove all doubt as to the exclusive authority of the Attorney-General.

The superintendent of the school, in her report for 1906, recommends that an appeal be made to Congress for an act changing the name of the institution to the Training School for Girls of District of Columbia. At the time of sending this Checklist to press (Apr. 1911) such change has not been made.]

J12. ATTORNEY-GENERAL, ASSISTANT, FOR CUSTOMS MATTERS †

---

† This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909, since which time a new office has been established in the Justice Department. This has necessitated new classes under J., the heading and series titles of which are as follows:

J12. Attorney-General, Assistant, for Customs Matters

[Office established under act of Aug. 5, 1909 (Stat. L. v. 36, pt. 1, p. 108). The organic act establishing this office abolished the former positions of solicitor of customs and assistant solicitors of customs.
The Assistant Attorney-General for Customs Matters represents the United States Government before the Supreme Court, Court of Customs Appeals, Circuit Courts of Appeals, circuit and district courts, and the Board of General Appraisers.]

J13. PENITENTIARY, McNEIL ISLAND

[Under act approved Jan. 22, 1867 (Stat. L. v. 14, p. 377), provision was made for erection of a United States penitentiary in Washington Territory, the amount to be expended for this purpose being limited to $20,000. It was located on McNeil Island, Wash. The act approved Feb. 22. 1873 (Stat. L. v. 17, p. 475) authorized an increased sum of $20,000, and in 1874 an additional appropriation of about $7,000 was made. No further appropriations were specifically made for this penitentiary up to 1897, its expenses being defrayed from the general appropriations for support of United States prisoners. There have since been several specific appropriations, the most notable of which is the sundry civil act approved Mar. 3, 1903 (Stat. L. v. 32, pt. 1, p. 1144), which appropriated $30,000 for construction of additional buildings, prison wall, and wharf.
The organic act provided that the erection of the building should be under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior. The Penitentiary has been from the first a Federal institution, under the management and control of the Attorney-General.]

Ju1. CIRCUIT COURTS

[Publications not issued by the Government, and no provision made for purchase or distribution of copies.]

Ju2. CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEALS

[Publications not issued by the Government, and no provision made for purchase or distribution of copies.]

Ju3. COURT OF CLAIMS

[Prior to 1855, all claims of citizens against the Government were laid before Congress and referred to a Committee on Claims in the Senate or House. The inability of these committees to examine fully all the claims submitted, and the difficulty of getting Congress to appropriate money for the payment of such claims as were favorably reported, amounted often to a denial of justice. By an act approved Feb. 25, 1855, a court for the hearing of private claims was established. It was, however, required to submit its findings, with briefs and testimony, to Congress, where they were referred to committees as before, and the resulting delay and injustice were but little mitigated. On Mar. 3, 1863, an amendatory act was passed making the Court of Claims really a court, its findings no longer subject to review by Congress, but providing for an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Ju6. SUPREME COURT

[The publications of the Supreme Court are not issued by the Government but are printed for the court by private publishers. By an annual enactment in the sundry civil appropriation act, the printing for the Supreme Court "shall be done by the printer it may employ, unless it shall otherwise order" (Stat. L. v. 35, pt. 1, p. 384).

Certain of the Supreme Court publications, i. e., United States reports, are purchased under authority of Congress and are distributed by the Government to those authorized by law to receive them. Such publications are virtually Government publications and are listed under Ju6.8:]

Ju6. SUPREME COURT—Continued

Ju6.8 [1]: United States reports (official set)

(v.nos.)

[The reports of cases adjudged in the United States Supreme Court are not published by the Government as public documents, but are a perquisite of the reporter of the court, who issues them through a private publishing house. He is required by law to supply the Government with 300 copies without charge, and copies above 300 in number he is required to sell to the Government at $2 a volume and to the public for a price not exceeding $5 a volume.

The Supreme Court reports which are procured for the Government are distributed by the Interior Department to certain officials specified by law. Sec. 683, Revised statutes, provides for the distribution of the 300 copies. This section was amended by act of Feb. 12, 1889 (Stat. L. v. 25, p. 661), which provided for the purchase of 76 additional sets for distribution to circuit and district courts. This act also repealed so much of sec. 386, Revised statutes, as charged the Department of Justice with distribution of Supreme Court reports.

Sec. 683, Revised statutes, was further amended by act of July 1, 1902 (Stat. L. v. 32, pt. 1, p. 630), for further distribution of reports of Supreme Court. By this act provision was made for the purchase of 104 more sets of the reports proper and also for the purchase of certain digests to v. 1-186 of the official set; see, for further information as to digests, note under Ju6.8 [2]:

The Interior Department distributes more than the 480 sets provided for by the acts above referred to. The mailing list is constantly changing, owing to the fact that by law the Department is required to distribute them to all places in the United States where courts are held. An act of Mar. 4, 1907 (Stat. L. v. 34, pt. 1, p. 1387), mentions 576 copies, a number which presumably is sufficient to meet the requirements of law. If more copies are required they may be secured by the Department through the contingent fund.

An official set of these reports from the beginning is made up as follows:

Reporter	Vols.	How cited	U. S. v. no.	Period covered
Dallas	4	Dal.	1– 4 U. S.	1790–1800
Cranch	9	Cr.	5– 13 U. S.	1801–1815
Wheaton	12	Wh.	14– 25 U. S.	1816–1827
Peters	16	Pet.	26– 41 U. S.	1828–1842
Howard	24	How.	42– 65 U. S.	1843–1860
Black	2	Black.	66– 67 U. S.	1861–1862
Wallace	23	Wal.	68– 90 U. S.	1863–1874
U. S. reports	91–218	U. S.	91–218 U. S.	1875–1909

In addition to the list as given above, a 17th volume of Peters was issued, but as it duplicates Howard's 1st volume, it is not counted in the total number of volumes preceding the series entitled United States reports, which began in 1875 with v. 91, the latest volume included in this Checklist being v. 218, for the Oct. 1909 term. The first 206 volumes of the official set are conveniently listed on p. 371–380 of Catalogue of library of Senate, 1908 (Y1.3:C28 [3]).

It is impracticable, well-nigh impossible, to attempt to give complete bibliographical information concerning every edition of each volume, as it is not likely that any set comprising a uniform edition could be consulted, much less full sets of each distinct edition. These conditions are the result of the laws governing the printing and distribution of Supreme Court reports, among which is a law which provides that incomplete sets shall be filled by any reprints of the missing volumes (Stat. L. v. 32, pt. 1, p. 630). Under existing circumstances, the entries in this Checklist are confined to the copies in the Public Documents Library, some of which are original editions and others later editions or reprints thereof.

Whereas there is only this one official set of these reports, there are many unofficial sets, which are not listed in this Checklist, because they can not be considered United States public documents in the broadest acceptation of that term, since the United States Government is not authorized to provide copies for all of the courts of the United States. See, for information as to unofficial reports, Catalogue of library of Department of Justice, to Sept. 1, 1904, p. 641 (J4.5:904).]

Ju6.8[2]: Digests of United States reports (official sets)

[Many digests of United States reports have been printed, but only the 4 v. Lawyers' Co-operative Publishing Company digest covering v. 1–206, the Russell and Winslow digest in 4 v. covering v. 1–186, and the Butler digest in 1 v. covering v. 187–202, can be considered official sets. The distribution of these two sets of digests covering v. 1–186 was authorized by sec. 4 of act of July 1, 1902 (Stat. L. v. 32, pt. 1, p. 631). Whereas both sets are therefore official, each judge or other officer to whom distribution is made is required to choose one of the 2 sets.

The Butler digest for v. 187–202 was authorized by deficiency appropriation act of Mar. 4, 1907 (Stat. L. v. 34, pt. 1, p. 1387), which provided for its purchase from the reporter of the Supreme Court at $3 a copy.

The digests are distributed by law in the same manner and to the same persons as the reports are distributed.

The Lawyers' Co-operative Publishing Company also published in 1908 a new 6 v. set, covering v. 1–206, but as there is no authority of law for purchase of copies by the Government, it is not included here. See, for information as to other unofficial digests, Catalogue of library of Department of Justice, to Sept. 1, 1904, p. 641 (J4.5:904); Catalogue of library of Senate, 1908, p. 147 (Y1.3:C28[3]); Catalogue of law books in Library of Congress, 1809, p. 271 (LC1.5:869[3]), etc.

Arbitrary numbers are assigned for official compilers or reporters, those numbers being separated by a period from the volume numbers of the United States reports digested, e. g.:

1.1–175[1] = v. 1 of Russell & Winslow's syllabus-digest of 1–175 U. S.
1.1–175[2] = v. 2 of Russell & Winslow's syllabus-digest of 1–175 U. S.
2.155–186 = Lawyers' Co-operative Publishing Company's digest of 155–186 U. S.
3.187–202 = Butler's digest of 187–202 U. S.]

1.1–175[1] Russell & Winslow's syllabus-digest of all decisions of Supreme Court of United States from 1 Dallas to 175 United States, with alphabetical table of cases reported, chronological table of cases cited to each syllabus point, and index-digest by subjects, covering all decisions officially reported, and embracing official syllabus of every case, with catch words added; by William Hepburn Russell and William Beverly Winslow. Contents:

Alphabetical table of cases in which no opinions were rendered, supplement covering 177–202 [U. S.].

Appendix of subsequent citations in 178–202 U. S., 101–144 Fed., supplemental table of subsequent citations of cases digested in v. 1–3, Russell & Winslow's syllabus-digest.

Index-digest of United States Supreme Court reports from 2 Dallas to 202 U. S. and to Russell & Winslow's syllabus-digest of United States Supreme Court reports.

LC3. COPYRIGHT OFFICE

[The connection of the Copyright Office with the Library of Congress dates from the act approved July 8, 1870. The act approved Feb. 19, 1897, created a register of copyrights whose duties were to be performed under the direction and supervision of the Librarian of Congress. See, for an account of the office, annual report of Library of Congress, 1901 (LC1.1:901), and History of Library of Congress, by W. D. Johnston (LC1.2:H62), and for Copyright enactments of United States, 1783–1906, Copyright Office Bulletin 3, 2d edition (LC3.3:3[2]).

The Public Documents Library has no copyright publications issued prior to July 8, 1870. From May 31, 1790 to Feb. 5, 1859, jurisdiction over copyright matters was vested in the Department of State, and from Feb. 5, 1859 to July 8, 1870, in the Department of the Interior.]

LC3.6[1]: (v. nos.) later (v. nos. and group nos.)

Catalogue of copyright entries, pt. 1, Books [etc.], new series

[The new series began July 5, 1906, the matter being arranged in 4 pts., the several parts being divided into volumes. Part 1 is later subdivided into 2 groups, beginning with v. 6. Volumes 1–5 of pt. 1 were issued in weekly numbers, but beginning with v. 6, group 1 is still issued weekly,† while group 2 becomes monthly.]

pt. 1, Books, dramatic compositions, maps and charts

v. 1, no. 1, July 5, 1906		v. 1, no. 4, July 26, 1906
no. 2, July 12, 1906		no. 5, Aug. 2, 1906
no. 3, July 19, 1906		no. 6, Aug. 9, 1906

†This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. Pt. 1, group 1, was issued weekly up to v. 8, no. 8, Mar. 23, 1911. From the last week of Mar. to Sept. 1911, issues have appeared 3 times a week, in signature form, without title-page. The year, number, and date of printing appear at the bottom of the first page, and the title and volume number are carried in the running head.

Beginning Mar. 1911, separate monthly indexes have been issued. These are unnumbered, but are classed in the Public Documents Library following the numbers which they index.

N. NAVY DEPARTMENT†

Gf 353.7 minor pubs US8 N3

[Created by act approved Apr. 30, 1798, supervision of naval affairs having been exercised prior to that time by the War Department. Reorganized by acts of Aug. 31, 1842 and July 5, 1862. A further reorganization under order of the Secretary of the Navy was put into effect Dec. 1, 1909.]

† Toward the close of the period covered by this Checklist, Secretary Meyer planned radical changes in the organization of the Navy Department. His scheme of organization was set forth in detail and promulgated by the publication entitled Changes in Navy regulations, 1909, no. 6 (N1.11[2]:909[6]), dated Nov. 18, 1909 and effective Dec. 1, 1909. It was not, however, until some months thereafter that any portion of the new scheme received the sanction of Congress, and even then it was only a temporary sanction, which permitted a trial of the plan for a year. The time has since been extended, but up to the date of the present writing (May, 1911) the reorganization can not with assurance be considered a permanent arrangement.

It is impracticable here to enter into a detailed description of the Meyer reorganization. Among its most important features is one which grouped the work of the Navy Department under 4 general divisions, as follows: (a) Division of Operations of the Fleet; (b) Division of Personnel; (c) Division of Material; (d) Division of Inspections. To assist the Secretary of the Navy in coordinating and carrying on the work of these 4 divisions, there are on duty in the office of the Secretary 4 officers of the Navy, on the active list, known, respectively, as the (a) Aid for operations; (b) Aid for personnel; (c) Aid for material; (d) Aid for inspections. These officers advise the Secretary on all matters pertaining to the duties of their respective divisions. The divisions over which they preside do not, however, issue documents and are not Government publishing offices. Hence in this Checklist there is no classification assigned to them.

In pursuance of recommendations from the Navy Department (see 61st Congress, 2d session, House report 293, serial no. 5591), the Bureau of Equipment (N5.) was abolished by naval appropriation act approved June 24, 1910 (Stat. L. v. 36, pt. 1, p. 613), and its work distributed to other bureaus; see, for further information, footnote for N5.

Information concerning changes in other bureaus, etc., affected by the Meyer reorganization and by naval appropriation act of June 24, 1910 may be found in footnotes at the points affected.

Herndon, William Lewis, and Gibbon, Lardner (note).

[The explorations of which an account is given in the volumes listed below were made in 1851 and 1852. Pt. 1, by Herndon, was transmitted to Congress Feb. 9, 1853, and pt. 2, by Gibbon, was submitted Feb. 10, 1854. These were printed by both Senate and House.

Pt. 1 was ordered printed by the Senate Feb. 10, 1853, and a later resolution of the same session, agreed to Mar. 3, 1853, provided for printing 10,000 extra copies of the part which had already been submitted, also for the same number of copies of pt. 2 when it should be submitted, and for the maps and charts accompanying the report. Both parts of the report appeared as Senate executive document 36, 32d Congress, 2d session, in sheep and in cloth.

Pt. 1 was printed by the House under order of Feb. 12, 1853, appearing as House executive document 43, 32d Congress, 2d session. A resolution adopted Jan. 6, 1854, provided for the printing of 10,000 extra copies of the reports with the accompanying maps and plates, and another resolution adopted Apr. 13, 1854, called for 20,000 copies more. In the sheep bound edition pt. 1 appears only as House executive document 43, 32d Congress, 2d session, and pt. 2 appears only as House executive document 53, 33d Congress, 1st session, but the extra copies of both pts. 1 and 2 were printed as House executive document 53, 33d Congress, 1st session. Entries for the cloth bound copies are given below.]

H43[1] Herndon, William Lewis, and Gibbon, Lardner. Exploration of valley of Amazon made by Wm. Lewis Herndon and Lardner Gibbon: pt. 1, by [Wm. Lewis] Herndon. H43[3] Same: pt. 1, by [Wm. Lewis] Herndon. Washington, Robert Armstrong, public printer, 1854. iv + 417 + iv p. 16 pl. [Cover-title reads: Valley of the Amazon, pt. 1. Some of the copies have cover-title "Herndon's Valley of the Amazon," and have the iv p. of contents preceding the title-page. Although all of the cloth bound copies examined in the Public Documents Library have on title-page the notation "33d Congress, 1st session, House executive [document] 53," this designation properly belongs only to pt. 2, Gibbon's report, which was submitted during the 33d Congress, 1st session, and was printed as House executive document 53 of that session. Herndon's report appears among the House documents in the sheep bound Congressional set only as 32d Congress, 2d session, House executive document 43, in serial no. 678. The sheep bound edition is cast somewhat differently and has 414 + iv p. 16 pl.; it has bound in at the end the 3 maps which in the cloth edition are separately bound, see N1.8:H43[4]; the sheep edition does not contain the Addendum added in 1854, which appears in the cloth bound copies as p. 397–417. The Public Documents Library has no information as to whether any of the cloth bound copies bore the notation of the 32d Congress, 2d session, House executive document 43.]

[On Mar. 2, 1889 (Stat. L. v. 25, p. 920), Congress provided as follows: "That the sum of $5,000 appropriated by act of Congress approved Dec. 22, 1888, to defray the expenses of observing a total eclipse of the sun [Jan. 1, 1889], and which, by reason of the delay in the passage of said act, was not expended, is hereby re-appropriated, and the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to use the said $5,000 to defray the expense of sending a scientific expedition to the west coast of Africa to observe the total eclipse of the sun which will occur on Dec. 22, 1889."

Prof. David P. Todd was placed in charge of the expedition and the Secretary of the Navy detailed the U. S. S. Pensacola to carry the members to and from Africa. The Pensacola sailed from New York Oct. 16, 1889, and reached the United States again early in May, 1890.

No final report of the expedition was issued. The only official publications issued by the Government were Bulletins 1–18, listed below.]

N1.9: Compilations of laws

826 Laws in relation to naval establishment and Marine Corps, collected and arranged by order of Secretary of Navy, from laws of United States, to end of 1st session of 19th Congress. Washington, Davis and Force, 1826. 12°

841 Laws in relation to Navy and Marine Corps to close of 2d session of 26th Congress [1789–1840], with acts and resolutions granting medals, swords, and votes of thanks, or having reference to special objects, also private acts for relief of individuals, [and] table of appropriations and expenditures for naval service, 1791–1840, to which are prefixed Constitution of United States and synopsis of legislation of Congress respecting naval affairs during Revolutionary War; compiled and arranged by Benjamin Homans. Washington, J. and G. S. Gideon, 1841.

843 Same, with appendix containing laws passed at 27th Congress. Washington, J. and G. S. Gideon, 1843.

[In 1848, a revised edition of the laws was compiled and issued by Mechlin and Winder in the same volume with their General register of Navy and Marine Corps; see N1.10:848[3].

In 1859, appeared Laws relating to Navy and Marine Corps from formation of Government to 1859, etc.; compiled by John F. Callan and A. W. Russell, and published in Baltimore by John Murphy & Co. The compilers of this volume were clerks to the Senate Committee on Military Affairs and the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, respectively. The compilation was a private publication and although it undoubtedly was used for reference by naval authorities, there is no evidence of its having been authorized by the Navy Department, or that Congress subscribed for any part of the edition. Hence it can not be considered a Government publication even in the broadest acceptance of the term, and it is therefore omitted from this Checklist.]

N1.10: Navy register various sizes "Register of the commissioned ..."

[The title-page of the publication popularly known by the above name reads, Register of commissioned and warrant officers of Navy and Marine Corps, and the present title varies only slightly from the form which has been used for the annual January issue from the earliest years of its existence.

Between 1798 and 1814 several lists of officers in the naval service appeared as private publications, two of which are noted below. Lists for 1806, 1812, 1814, and 1818-25 are contained in American state papers, volume on Naval affairs.

The first volume of the official Navy register was issued in 1814, and with the exception of 1816, when none was issued, and certain variations in 1861, 1862, 1878, and 1887, it has appeared regularly ever since.

Up to 1847 the size varied, some being 16° and some 12°. From 1848 to 1853, part of the edition was 12° and part was printed with wider margins as a 4° publication. Since 1854 it has been uniformly 8° except the 2d edition of July, 1895.

Between 1835 and 1848 certain publications supplementary to the annual official register were issued as private ventures, of which there are noted below the mid-year and quarterly registers of Benjamin Homans, and a General register of Navy and Marine Corps, 1798-1848, by Mechlin & Winder.

In 1861 a revision of the January list was issued Aug. 31, and in 1862, the only issue for the year appeared Sept. 1. Beginning in 1866 a semiannual issue corrected to July or August was issued each year, except 1876 and 1879, up to July, 1887. From 1888 to 1892 the register was issued only once a year, in January. In 1893, the July publication was resumed under title, List and station of commissioned and warrant officers of Navy and Marine Corps on active list. This was again discontinued with July, 1907, similar information being after that time included in the monthly publication, Navy and Marine Corps list and directory (N1.24:).

Prior to 1896, the annual issues of the Navy register did not appear in the Congressional set. Certain special lists of officers for various periods between 1815 and 1889 may be found in the Congressional set as follows: [94-43], [291-36], [397-173], [981-17], [1176-3], [1316-19], [1996-126], [2678-3].

Between 1848 and 1863, transcripts of the official Navy list, showing pay and allowances for each officer, were also prepared, by fiscal years, usually from the official list issued the preceding January, with necessary corrections for deaths, resignations, etc. These appeared only in the Congressional set, as follows:

1848	[540-36]	1852	[677-35]	1856	[900-58]	1860	[1101-78]
1849	[576-27]	1853	[721-44]	1857	[956-73]	1861	[1127-24]
1850	[599-29]	1854	[783-49]	1858	[1008-101]	1862	[None issued.]
1851	[677-13]	1855	[851-36]	1859	[1048-38]	1863	[1163-77]

A list of Navy registers 1814-91, with brief history, was issued by Navy Department, 1891; see N1.2:R26.]

N1.13[1]: General orders [1st series, Jan. 10, 1863–June 28, 1900] 12°

(nos.)

[Prior to 1863, the General orders were not numbered or regularly distributed. Beginning Jan. 10, 1863, they have been numbered in regular series as given below.
General orders 1–356, issued between 1863 and 1886, though out of print in their original form, may be found in the compilation, General orders and circulars issued by Navy Department, 1863–87 (N1.2:G28), this being the only form in which they are to be found in the Public Documents Library.
Nos. 357–406 were issued presumably between 1887 and 1892; nos. 407–419 were issued in 1893; nos. 420–438, in 1894; nos. 439–455, in 1895; nos. 456–468, in 1896; a 2d and a 3d edition of no. 414, and nos. 469–482, in 1897; a 4th edition of no. 414, and nos. 483–504, in 1898; nos. 505–536, in 1899; nos. 537–552, in 1900.]

(date of meeting)

[The Naval Militia Association is an organization having as its officers representative members of the naval militia organizations of the various States, the object being to advance naval militia throughout the United States.

The proceedings of annual meetings held at Washington, D. C., Jan. 14, 15, 1904 and Dec. 12, 13, 1905 were published, with slightly different titles, as Congressional documents; see [4592–265] and [4915–435].

The transactions for 1909 and later years are printed by Navy Department under a portion of the act for "arming and equipping naval militia," which provides for "printing or purchase of necessary books of instruction" for the naval militia.]

† On Dec. 1, 1909, by order of the Secretary of the Navy, dated Nov. 18, 1909 and promulgated by the publication entitled Changes in Navy regulations, 1909, no. 6 (N1.11 [2]:909 [6]), the work in connection with the naval militia was transferred to the Division of Personnel. This division is not a publishing office and hence has no classification in this Checklist.

The naval appropriation act approved Mar. 4, 1911 included in the appropriation for "arming and equipping naval militia" a provision for "salaries of the necessary clerical force and office expenses in the Navy Department, at Washington, D. C.," dating from the approval of the act. This provision was the natural result of the increase of work connected with the naval militia. The provision did not establish what can be legitimately called a new division or bureau. There is merely an office, which is known as the "Office of Naval Militia." The office force consists (in 1911) of one naval officer, one clerk, and one messenger.

This Checklist ends with the publications of the calendar year 1909. In addition to the publications for 1909 issued since the transfer to the Division of Personnel and listed above in the body of this Checklist under N1.27 [1-5]:, the Naval Militia Office in 1910 began two new series of publications, the titles of which are as follows:

N1.27 [6]: (date) Naval Militia Office, Register of commissioned and warrant officers of naval militia

† The duty in connection with the naval militia was, up to Dec. 1, 1909, performed by the naval officer detailed as aid to the assistant Secretary of the Navy, assisted by such clerk, or clerks, as might be detailed for the purpose, and the reports on naval militia were addressed to the assistant Secretary. Therefore such reports as were printed down to and including 1909 are classed among the publications of the assistant Secretary, under N2.7: Other naval militia publications issued prior to Dec. 1, 1909, are classed under N2.2: and N2.4:

On Dec. 1, 1909, supervision of naval militia affairs was transferred from the office of the assistant Secretary of the Navy to the Division of Personnel. See, for further information and for publications issued since Dec. 1, 1909, entries, notes, and footnotes for N1.27[1–7]:
